Pontious To Attend FBI Academy

SGT. LARRY PONTIOUS

Clarence M. Kelly, Director of the FBI, has extended an invitation to Circleville Police Sergeant Larry Pontious to attend the 109th session National Academy at Quantico, Va.

According to information from the academy, each national academy session consists of a comprehensive and balanced 11 week program of advanced instruction. Through affiliation with the University of Virginia, up to 16 hours of undergraduate credit can be earned.

In addition to the academic requisites, National Academy students must participate in 20 hours of law enforcement non-credit electives. This training is available in such areas as latent finger print photography, advanced pistol marksmanship, hostage situations, and others.

At the academy, Sgt. Pontious will be studying the theory and principles of crime scene search, effective communication, management for law enforcement, community behavior, urban environment, basic budgeting for law enforcement, and a standard course in criminal law.

Pontious will observe his 14th year as a Circleville Police Officer in early March. He reached the rank of sergeant in March of 1969.

Circleville Police Chief Robert Temple extended the department's thanks to city council for their resolution of support in connection with Sgt. Pontious' attendance at the academy.

Sertoma Seeks Nominees For Service Award

The Circleville Sertoma Club is now accepting nominations from citizens of Circleville and Pickaway County for the annual Service to Mankind Award.

The club is looking for a person who has given unselfishly of time, talent and dedication to help others without receiving recognition or fame for himself. People who work with the sick, handicapped, PTA, girl scouts, boy scouts, hospitals, missionaries or just anyone who needed help are good candidates.

If you know of such a person, the Sertoma Club of Circleville would like to recognize that person publicly.

Nominations giving a brief description of the nominee's work may be sent to Bill Everhart, 310 Shasta Drive. The winning candidate will be selected during the second week of February and honored at a banquet to be given later in the month.

The recipient will also be nominated at the Sertoma International District Convention to be held in the Spring for district and possibly International recognition.

The nominees must be associated actively in the community.

Past recipients of the Service to Mankind Award include:

Mrs. Georgia Walker, Mrs. Rose Ann Stinson, Mrs. Francis Pritt, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones, Mrs. Etha Mae Wolford, Mrs. Fannie Brooks, Mrs. Merton Lorentz, Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick, Mrs. Walter Heine, Miss Ruth Stout.

Ohio Braces For New Storm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Temperature records tumbled across Ohio overnight as another winter storm headed toward the state from the west.

Early morning lows ranged from zero to 14 below, surpassing records set as long ago as the 19th century.

Columbus and Toledo shared the low temperature honors at minus 14, surpassing the 1895 record for the date in Columbus and Toledo's 1903 mark.

Ohio records included 13 below in Youngstown and Zanesville, 11 below in Findlay and 10 below in Cleveland.

A developing low center in the central Plains has produced a winter storm warning for the northwestern counties for this afternoon and tonight and a winter storm watch for the rest of the state.

The low center will move east to southern Wisconsin by evening and to western Lake Erie by Friday morning. Snow was forecast to spread east ahead of this low into northwestern Ohio this afternoon and over most of Ohio by early tonight.

Snow may be heavy at times and there is a chance of the snow becoming mixed with freezing rain tonight. Temperatures will climb to the 20s by late afternoon with little temperature drop likely tonight. Snow may change to rain briefly in southern Ohio Friday with highs in the 30s in those areas.

A sprawling high pressure cell centered over the upper Ohio Valley has scattered snow, rain and freezing rain across the central part of the nation.

Travelers' advisories were posted in South Dakota, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and Tennessee because of drizzle and snow.

Heavy snow was falling across extreme southwestern Missouri and a heavy snow warning was in effect there.

A developing low pressure center over Nebraska was expected to sweep across the middle Mississippi Valley and the Ohio Valley later today, spreading further frigid cold and snow.

Longet Tells Of Death Of Lover

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — With ex-husband Andy Williams weeping in a hushed courtroom, Claudine Longet told jurors that her lover cried, "Claudine! Claudine! Claudine!" as he fell dying to the bathroom floor after a gun went off accidentally in her hands.

Williams, a television and recording star, wiped his tears with a pink tissue Wednesday as Miss Longet — holding the fatal pistol as she spoke — described how champion skier Vladimir "Spider" Sabich died last March 21 in the $250,000 Rocky Mountain chalet they shared.

"Spider called my name three times, and he sort of slid down, and I told him I would call the hospital, not to move," Miss Longet testified, biting her lips to hold back tears.

Both defense and prosecution said they expected the reckless manslaughter charge against the 35-year-old entertainer to go to the jury today or Friday. If convicted, she faces a maximum 10 years in jail and $30,000 fine.

The prosecution doesn't claim she intended to shoot Sabich, but says she was criminally reckless in handling the gun.

The tiny state district courtroom was packed for the diminutive, dark-haired defendant's testimony. At one point, spectators peering over library shelves in the rear of the room were asked not to stand on law books to watch her.

"I saw he was sort of fainting," Miss Longet said. "So I tried to give him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, but I didn't know how."

Sabich died of a single bullet wound in the stomach from a .22-caliber pistol modeled after the German Luger.

Miss Longet said she had asked Sabich how to use the gun because she was frightened for the safety of her three children by Williams, who lived with her and Sabich.

"I was holding it with both hands," Miss Longet said, gingerly taking the pistol from a defense attorney and holding it flat between her palms.

It was then she began crying. She had not held the gun since the night Sabich died.

"I raised the gun, and I said, 'When that lever is on the red spot, is it safe, it won't fire?'"

The dozen jurors leaned forward to hear the soft-spoken defendant, whose accent still shows strong traces of her native France.

"He said, 'Yes, it won't fire. You've got it. You have it,' or something like that ... I went back to holding it, and it just went off ..."

"I ran to the bedroom, and I called the hospital and told someone to send an ambulance right away. By the time I came back to Spider, my children were standing there, and I sent them out."

"I told them to go to the bottom of the hill to look for the ambulance so they wouldn't go the other way."

During cross-examination, prosecutor Ashley Anderson questioned Miss Longet closely about the testimony of two law enforcement officers.

They said Miss Longet told them at the hospital where Sabich was rushed the night of the shooting that she "playfully pointed the gun at (Sabich) and she gestured at him, saying, 'Bang bang.'"

Anderson asked, "You did not jokingly point the gun and say 'bang bang' and it went off?"

"I wouldn't joke with guns," Miss Longet quickly replied.

Anderson asked her to hold the weapon twice, then asked, "Are you positive your hand was not on the trigger?"

"I had my hand on the trigger," Miss Longet answered.

Anderson repeated, "Your hand was on the trigger when you raised it?"

"I have to assume it was" because the gun fired, she said, adding later, "I did not raise my hand with my finger on the trigger ..."

A ballistics expert testified for the prosecution that the safety device didn't work, but the trigger had to be pulled for the gun to fire. Miss Longet's mention of the "red spot" referred to the safety.

Defense attorney Charles V. Weedman asked his client about her affair with Sabich, who would have been 32 this week. He had captured the world ski title in 1971 and 1972, but his career plummeted after repeated injuries the next season.

"Spider and I loved each other very much," Miss Longet said. "I think we were the very best of friends."

Williams, his bright blue eyes rimmed from crying, began staring at the courtroom's rust carpet. He and Miss Longet were divorced two years ago but still are friends.

He steadfastly defended her character when testifying earlier for the prosecution, then the defense.

Ford Bids Farewell With Parting Words Toward Economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pausing briefly in its preparations for the administration of Jimmy Carter, Congress heard "an old friend," President Ford, bid an emotional farewell in a State of the Union address that looked back with pride and forward with hope and prayer.

"Touching ... a nice eulogy ... a good swan song," were the comments from members of Congress, Democrats and Republicans alike, at the conclusion of Ford's Wednesday night address.

Throughout the day, delegations from Congress held meetings with Carter, who will be sworn in as president a week from today.

Acknowledging that "the people have spoken," and the new president would outline his program in his inaugural address, Ford said, "I will not infringe on that responsibility, but rather wish him the very best in all that is good for our country."

Rather than present Congress with a list of legislative requests, Ford chose to emphasize accomplishments of his 30-month presidency.

Ford entered the House chamber where he served for 25 years and was greeted by prolonged applause. House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill, D-Mass., introduced Ford as "an old friend the President of the United States."

The President-elect had no immediate comment on the Ford address.

"It was a nice eulogy by a nice man," said Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex. "It was a good, fair administration by a man who did his level best to improve the country, with some success and some failure."

Senate Republican Leader Howard H. Baker of Tennessee called the speech "magnificent, the most touching State of the Union message I've ever heard."

"It was a good swan song," said Sen. Ted Stevens of Alaska, assistant Senate Republican leader.

His voice breaking, Ford closed his speech with a prayer that "God guide this wonderful country, its people, and those they have chosen to lead them."

Earlier, he told the joint session of Congress that "the state of the union is good ... today we have a more perfect union than when my stewardship began."

Ford recalled that when he took office Aug. 9, 1974, "our nation was deeply divided and tormented. In rapid succession, the vice president and the president had resigned in disgrace.... In January 1975, I reported to the Congress that the state of the union was not good.... A year ago, I reported that the state of the union was better — in many ways a lot better — but still not good enough....

"Now, after 30 months as your President I can say that while we still have a way to go, I am proud of the long way we have come together."

He cited the fact the nation was at peace and no Americans were fighting anywhere in the world.

Turning to domestic concerns, Ford said his administration had "successfully cut inflation by more than half.... We have created more jobs."

Pup Starts Fire All By Himself

FARGO, N.D. (AP) — Some fires have the dog-gonest causes.

Firefighters were called Wednesday to a residence when someone smelled smoke.

The occupants of the apartment, Kathy and Vicky Vchulek, were not home, but their playful puppy was.

Assistant Fire Chief Lancel Josal said the pet apparently started the fire. He said firemen found matches scattered on the floor, a burned box of matches, a hole burned in the rug and a scared puppy.

"The dog was in the habit of chewing on matches," Josal said. "They have tried to keep them away from him, but evidently the dog got hold of the box again and went back to his old habit."

CHAMBER INTERVIEWERS — These men are a part of a large group of chamber members that interview veterans of the Chillicothe V. A. Hospital. In the atmosphere of their business, the outgoing veterans have a chance to practice the various interviewing

Circleville Chamber Holds Mock Interviews For Vets

Each month, September through May, the Circleville Chamber of Commerce holds "Mock Interview" sessions with outgoing patients from the Chillicothe Veteran's Administration Hospital.

Approximately 50 chamber members have participated in the project by supplying questions, interview situations and the atmosphere for job applicant.

According to Jean Ankrom, coordinator of the program, the chamber has been involved with this training for veterans since the early 1960s. Over 500 veterans have benefited from the interview situation.

The basic process is having a veteran fill out a job application as though they are applying for a job at that particular industry. They are then interviewed by a chamber member for a job pertinent to that particular business.

Although the veteran knows this situation is only a practice session, it is a chance for him to get acquainted with the questions he will be asked.

Bob Coyer of the V. A. Hospital said this is a part of the rehabilitation program at the hospital. According to a recent survey, the chamber is the only organization in the United States with a program of this type.

The interviews are held at local businesses and industries so the veteran will feel comfortable in the business situation. This program helps the veterans get over the jitters from a first time interview situation. This is necessary because many of the men have been out of the job market for extended periods of time.

OSU Fire Claims 2

COLUMBUS (AP) — Two persons were killed and three others injured when they jumped to safety from a fire that swept through an Ohio State University area duplex early today, fire officials said.

Two other residents of the two-story, wood-frame house awoke in time to escape from the 5:49 a.m. blaze, officials said.

"There was no doubt it was all going to go—it was a mass of flames," said Eric Schafer, 23, who escaped with his wife, Jean, 26.

Asst. Fire Chief Neil Mills said the bodies of the dead victims were found in the basement, under a bed that had been on the second level before the floors collapsed.

The two were believed to be women, but the remains were burned too badly to make sex identification positive, he said.

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved higher today in active trading after suffering heavy losses in the previous session.

Investors had to contend Wednesday with the news of a sharp jump in the Labor Department's wholesale price index last month, the fourth substantial monthly increase in a row.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up more than a point and advances outnumbered declines by a 2-1 ratio on the New York Stock Exchange.

Among the early trading leaders were Texas International, unchanged at 10 1/4; ITT, up 1/2 to 33 3/4, and Pittston Co., up 1/4 to 33 3/4.

On Wednesday, the Dow fell 8.40 to 968.25 on the heels of a 10.22-point slide Tuesday.

That extended the average's loss since the start of the year to 36.40 points.

Losers outdistanced gainers by about an 11-4 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 22.67 million shares, against 24.10 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .39 to 55.95.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .40 at 109.61.

your spending power actually isn't keeping pace because federal taxes take bigger and bigger bites of your earnings.

That is the conclusion of a new government study which notes that income tends to rise to keep up with inflation. But the bad news is that taxpayers are moved to constantly higher tax brackets while, at the same time, the inflation erodes the real value of tax exemptions, credits and standard deductions.

The study said this problem may continue to plague American taxpayers through 1981 if there is no change in tax law and if inflation grows at an annual rate of 5 to 6 per cent between 1977-81 as forecast by the Congressional Budget Office and the executive branch.

The report by the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations recommends changes in federal and state tax laws to soften this impact. One solution set forth is to tie the amounts allowed for personal exemptions, the standard deduction and some credits directly to each year's rise in the Consumer Price Index, the inflation indicator.

As inflation rose, so would those tax return items that lower a person's taxes.

Similar proposals have been made by a number of congressmen and senators. Several countries, including France, the Netherlands and, since 1974, Canada, already are using this type of a tax system.

The commission said that such a revision of U.S. law, known as indexing, would work to wipe out any unintended tax increase caused by heavier than normal inflation.

The report said the country since 1972 has been experiencing an average annual inflation rate of 9.6 per cent, "a clear departure from the historically mild 2-3 per cent for the U.S. since 1950." The rate for 1976 was around 6 per cent.

The report gave this example of how inflation distorts income taxes. A married couple with two children, who file jointly, have an income of $10,000 and take the standard deduction, had a 1975 federal tax bill of $709.

Assuming an annual 7 per cent inflation rate and that the couple's income grew to keep pace, the couple's 1978 income will go up 22.5 per cent to $12,250, but their tax will go up 58.7 per cent to $1,125.

Rating Declines

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. still is popular in his home state, but not as popular as when he got elected, the California Poll reports.

"Brown's current job rating, while still generally favorable, is the poorest he has received since taking office as measured by the California Poll," pollster Mervin Field said Tuesday.

The poll said that of 1,033 persons surveyed in November, 37 per cent said Brown is doing a "good job" as governor. Brown's August rating in the poll was 46 per cent. His highest rating came last March, when more than half the persons questioned said they thought he was doing a good job.

BANK PROMOTIONS — At the annual meeting of stockholders of The Citizens Bank of Ashville Wednesday, Eugene Wilson (left) was promoted to president; Calvin Gebhart (center) to vice president and cashier; and Eleanor H. FPC Eyes Emergency Gas Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission is deciding whether to allow emergency natural gas sales to two pipelines that are short of gas and that have cut back service to customers in a number of states.

The action by the commission is being watched closely because the way could be cleared for gas-starved pipelines to buy fuel from sources not subject to federal price regulations.

Such fuel would cost more but it would allow the pipelines to get through the winter, which has brought record-low temperatures to much of the United States.

In the case being heard today by the FPC, the Houston Pipeline Co., of Houston, Tex., wants to sell the gas. Houston Pipeline is a firm that does not transport natural gas across state borders and so is not subject to federally regulated gas prices.

Buying the gas are two hardpressed interstate pipelines ordinarily subject to FPC regulation and price ceilings: Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp. and United Gas Pipe Line Co.

Those two pipelines have suffered increasing shortages of gas supplies since 1970, forcing them to curtail deliveries to their customers in a number of states.

The latest FPC report, covering July through September, showed the Transcontinental company was short some 115.3 billion cubic feet of gas. Its shortages hit most heavily in North Carolina, New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

United Gas was short some 198.3 billion cubic feet, forcing large curtailments in Louisiana — ironically, one of the nation's major gas-producing states — and Mississippi.

Through November and December, the two pipelines had been able to buy gas, at prices unregulated by the federal government, from Houston Pipeline under PFC rules allowing such emergency purchases for 60 days.

Houston Pipeline has asked the FPC to allow continuation of such sales — up to 85 billion cubic feet a day to Transcontinental and up to 150 million per day to United — for another 60 days starting Jan. 6.

But it is not clear how much authority the FPC has to permit that. When the commission tried in 1975 to authorize such emergency sales for as long as 180 days, the attempt was overturned by the federal courts which considered it an indirect way of abandoning the price regulations required by law.

On Jan. 5, just one day before the new Houston Gas deliveries were to begin, the FPC authorized the new sales but scheduled public hearings on the complicated issue.

It promised Houston Gas that while the FPC makes up its mind about the deal, Houston Gas will not risk becoming an FPC-regulated company just because it is selling more gas to Transcontinental and United.

That decision kept the gas flowing to those two pipelines temporarily.

Sulfur Emissions Standards Unpopular

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Two days of testimony on proposed federal regulations on sulfur dioxide emissions for the state showed an overwhelming sentiment among witnesses against the rules which some say will severely hurt the state's coal mining industry.

The state's two top energy officials, a majority of both houses of the legislature, coal miners, businessmen and union officials all sent their representatives to lectern in Veteran's Memorial here to offer opposition to the federal regulations which many feel leave coal burners and utilities with two alternatives: To stop burning high sulfur Ohio coal or to install expensive flue gas scrubbers.

"Maybe you can stop them from burning Ohio coal, but there are 15,000 angry miners out there that say you can't burn western coal either," a young miner told the hearing board.

Robert Ryan, director of the state Energy and Resource Development Agency, was joined by C. Luther Heckman, Public Utilities Commission chairman, in opposing the adoption of the federal standards.

Ryan predicted the federal regulations would cost 7,000 Ohio miners their jobs. Heckman said the rules would boost electricity bills for Ohioans, many already strapped to pay.

Four state senators and four representatives from coal producing and burning districts joined in circulating petitions asking state Environmental Protection Agency Director Ned Williams to adopt less stringent standards for emissions.

The petitions contained the signatures of 85 of 99 House members and 22 of 33 senators.

Every witness in favor of cutting back sulfur dioxide emissions blasted the national standards as either too full of errors in computation or less stringent than necessary.

"We are on record as opposing the U.S. EPA regulations," Braxton Tewart, Ohio Lung Association program director, said, claiming the plan is not stringent enough.

On the last day of the hearings, a Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. official said it would cost $76 million to meet proposed sulfur dioxide emissions standards and the expense couldn't come at a worse time.

D.J. Libert, Youngstown vice president and general counsel, said his firm in the last quarter showed a net loss before taxes.

"When we received the federal regulations in August 1976 I can't say we were surprised. We were shocked and in utter disbelief," he said.

The firm had planned to spend about $5 million to meet standards handed down in 1973, Libert said, but the latest proposal increases that figure 15 fold and will affect each separate operation in the steel producing process.

Once the testimony and exhibits are reviewed, the state EPA can do one of three things. It can adopt the federal plan or adopt it with slight modifications. It can make major revisions and hold more public hearings. Or it can simply do nothing and allow the federal agency to enforce its rules as proposed.

Chemical Additives Under Study

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee is looking into whether the government is insuring the safety of chemical food additives before they are served to consumers.

The Senate Small Business Committee, chaired by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., opens two days of hearings today that will focus on the regulation by the Food and Drug Administration of three food additives, saccharine, Red Dye No. 2 and Aspartame.

Saccharine is an artificial sweetener allowed by the FDA, although studies since 1970 have raised questions about whether it could cause cancer. A study last year by the General Accounting Office of Congress questioned the wisdom of leaving saccharine in circulation while its safety is still being tested.

Red Dye No. 2 was banned last year, 15 years after its safety was first questioned. The FDA had repeatedly postponed its decision on the food coloring at the behest of the food industry to allow more tests.

Aspartame is another artificial sweetener. The FDA has approved it for use, though later the agency revoked its approval after discovering discrepancies in test data submitted by the manufacturer indicating the substance might not be safe for human consumption.

Nelson said in a statement released before the hearings, "Many chemicals long used in the food supply are being shown to be harmful under new scientific scrutiny."

"Many were never adequately pretested prior to widespread use."

"And the number of new chemicals or new uses for food chemicals continues to proliferate without a full assessment of the chemicals' real nutritional value or potential health hazard."

The chemicals are allowing consumers to obtain a wider variety of packaged and processed food products with a long shelf-life.

Shrine Club Installation Set Monday

The Pickaway Shrine Club will hold the annual installation of officers at Steele's Monday. Hospitality hour will begin at 6 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m.

Officers will be installed by Dr. Robert N. Phillips, the director of the Aladdin Temple Drum and Bugle Corps.

Guest speaker for the evening will be Father Richard J. Connelly, retired pastor of St. Coleman's Catholic Church, Washington C. H.

Reservations may be made by calling Robert Call at 474-3032 or 474-7567.

Urge Federal Tax Tie With Inflation

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your salary is just keeping up with inflation,

Markets

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices moved higher today in active trading after suffering heavy losses in the previous session.

Investors had to contend Wednesday with the news of a sharp jump in the Labor Department's wholesale price index last month, the fourth substantial monthly increase in a row. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks was up more than a point and advances outnumbered declines by a 2-1 ratio on the New York Stock Exchange.

Among the early trading leaders were Texas International, unchanged at 10 1/4; ITT, up 1/2 to 33 3/4, and Pittston Co., up 1/4 to 33 1/2.

On Wednesday, the Dow fell 8.40 to 968.25 on the heels of a 10.22-point slide Tuesday.

That extended the average's loss since the start of the year to 36.40 points.

Losers outdistanced gainers by about an 11-4 margin on the NYSE.

Big Board volume reached 22.67 million shares, against 24.10 million on Tuesday.

The NYSE's composite index lost .39 to 55.95.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was down .40 at 109.61.

California Drought May Get Worse

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The impact of the California drought of 1976 may be just a drop in the bucket if things don't get a lot wetter in 1977.

A New Year's weekend storm dumped about four inches of rain in Northern California, but it was the first rainfall of any consequence since late last summer.

And state water officials say at least 10 more storms of equal magnitude are needed in the next two months to prevent likely water shortages next summer. Experts are predicting the worst two-year drought in 100 years.

Agriculture economists see prices going up — but not drastically — for some products in the new year, but plenty of supermarket price hikes later if there are back-to-back dry years.

Still, they all say that no one really knows what the exact impact on farmers—and in the long run, consumers—will be if California suffers two severe drought years in a row.

California produces more than 70 per cent of the nation's supply of nearly a score of products ranging from almonds — which had a bumper crop — to raisins, nearly wiped out in 1976.

"It's a mixed bag," said state farm statistician George Tucker, who noted that many farmers prospered despite all the problems.

Dairy farmers as a whole had a tremendous year, said California Farm Bureau economist Dick Hartmann, "but don't say that to those in Sonoma County, the ones who had to carry water for cows to drink."

Twenty-eight California counties already have been declared disaster areas because of the drought.

Mariposa County, with some $1.5 million in grazing grass losses, should be added to the list, state officials say.

There's no good yardstick to forecast 1977 farm prospects because California hasn't experienced two severe drought years in a row since the network of dams and canals has allowed farmers to irrigate.

The California Farm Bureau Federation estimates that California farmers and livestock ranchers, mainly the latter, suffered $1 billion in losses to drought, untimely rain and labor strikes this year.

The state Department of Food and Agriculture won't have its statistics out for a few weeks, but one official pressed for a ballpark estimate pegged 1976 agriculture losses at about $750 million. The state agency tends to be more conservative in its projections.

Agriculture is an $8-billion-a-year industry in California, the state's largest.

So far, the outlook for 1977 rainfall appears dismal. If some unusually heavy storms don't come through, California farmers may be short on irrigation water next summer.

Columbus Man Makes Own Pipes

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tim West doesn't smoke any ordinary dimestore pipes. His are one-of-a-kind. He makes them himself.

Now the Columbus pipemaker has set up shop at Ohio State University, teaching others to make pipes.

West said he made pipes as a hobby for nine years and has worked professionally for two. He's in his first year as a teacher.

"The course is taught with household tools—tools that would normally be found in a home workshop. That's the way I taught myself. No one taught me," West said.

"This is probably the first brier pipemaking course in the state," West said.

He oversees four students—the capacity of the course—as they spend hours filing rough Grecian brier, boring holes and inserting stems. And when they're finished (usually in four to eight hours, depending on the intricacy of the pipe), they have a unique smoking instrument.

Some of West's handiwork includes a pipe in the shape of a hand holding a bowl, a skull and a clown. The hand, which took 40 hours to make, was one of his first creations.

His pipes sell for $15 and up. Brier blocks cost about $3 and his students pay $25 for an eight-week course.

"The brier comes originally from Greece. Greece is the best, that's what everybody says," West said. "But it all depends on the pipe smoker."

West said the only equipment necessary for pipemaking are a vice, saws, hand drill, bowl drills, buffing drills and sandpaper. In addition, serious students might invest $60 in a tool to insert the mouthpiece.

A Page Of Opinion

Now They Protest

Whatever the leading anti-Vietnam war protesters of the 1960s expected would happen when the United States withdrew its forces and the North Vietnamese won victory, at least 90 of them are sufficiently aroused to stage another protest? this one against Hanoi's repression of South Vietnam.

In a petition to Dinh Ba Thi, the Vietnamese UN representative, the 90 — led by such well-known protesters as Joan Baez, Paul O'Dwyer, Allen Ginsberg, Roger Baldwin and Rep. Edward Koch — accused the communist regime of "grievous and systematic violations of human rights."

Citing the detention of hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese in "re-education" camps, the repression of cultural and political expression and "gross abuses" of civil liberties, the protesters asked for on-the-spot inspections of the detention camps by neutral observers and the release of persons imprisoned for political or religious convictions.

They have a fat chance of receiving any affirmative response to their requests. The war is over, the communists won and they are not about to change their stripes because some naive Americans now express dismay at the results.

"The actions of your government," the petitioners said, "constitute a great disappointment to all those who expected not the bloodbath so eagerly predicted by the American White House, but rather an example of reconciliation built on tolerance."

What the petitioners seem to be saying is they regret having to admit the White House assessment of the consequences of a communist victory was correct. At least these 90 no longer are among the many who have remained silent through the horrible events of the war's aftermath.

Coffee Boycott

By PHYLLIS BATTELLE
NEW YORK — The nationwide coffee boycott appears to be proceeding sluggishly.

"We're trying," leered our local supermarket manager this week, "but we can't seem to get our customers off the grounds. Get it?"

There was light applause from the checkout clerk, who had spent a hectic day toting up hundreds of cans of Martinson's coffee, the coupon special at $1.89 a pound. "As long as people can pick up coffee at under $2 a pound on special, the boycott isn't going to work," she observed wisely. "Women are hoarding it. They aren't buying any more tea than usual."

Even Elinor Guggenheimer, the consumer affairs commissioner of New York City who began the boycott movement, concedes that it's a tough go, trying to lower prices through popular abstention of the national drink.

Americans are a peculiarly perverse people. After cigarette packages were labeled "dangerous to your health," people began smoking more cigarettes than ever. Telling them they shouldn't drink coffee appears to be having a similar effect — causing them to cherish, rather than forgo, the product.

We are annoyed at high prices, but we're even more miffed at being told what not to do. At the very least, we're apathetic.

And the apathetic American typically reaches for a cup of coffee to give him a needed surge of energy.

Mrs. Guggenheimer warns that if we don't wake up (unfortunately, we also take coffee to wake up), we may see coffee prices "rise to $3.50 a pound, to $4 or heaven knows where." And that may do it. But then it may be too late.

Already, according to a report in the Wall Street Journal, green coffee costs have more than tripled in the last 18 months, and we haven't really begun to see these prices reflected in the roasted coffee prices on the market shelves. Beans from Colombia, for example, recently sold up to $2.27 a pound, compared with 71 cents in mid-1975. So we are currently buying canned coffee, on special, at the market price of the raw beans. Brazilian beans, likewise, are now selling to roasters at $2.50 a pound, up from 69 cents 18 months ago.

Why the rise? Adverse weather in the coffee-growing belts: too much cold here, too much rain there. The problem has just begun.

Under the circumstances, it would seem that the boycott concept was started too soon. Customers across the country are not yet sufficiently irate. There was still "bargain shopping" available to them.

"People are foolish to pay these current prices for coffee," says the supermarket manager. But here foolishness is not sufficient cause to switch a life-long addict into a tea-totaller.

When the prices become "insane" — and they probably will — that's when the boycott will stand a chance.

The Life Extension Institute in New York revealed as good a reason as any for cutting down on coffee consumption.

It studied 2,000 executives, and discovered that only 60.3 per cent of them reported they slept well in the 1970s.

In a similar study made in the 1950s, 90 per cent of the business bosses slept well.

This indicated that the number of people who have trouble getting a good night's sleep (or the perception of a good night's sleep — seven to nine hours) has risen from 10 to 40 per cent over a period of 20 years.

The most insomniac of executives were those over 56 years of age — in other words, those mature enough to be worried — and those involved in marketing and production.

Is this a sign that times are more pressured and tense now than they were in the 1950s? Or that men do not need as much sleep as they think they do?

Mrs. Gay Luce, an expert on sleep rhythms, would vote for the second conclusion. "Everyone on earth," she told us, "has a different sleep quota — but society has somehow given us the impression that we all need seven to nine hours' sleep to function well. If we don't get that much, we're inclined to think we've had a 'bad night.'"

"Many people function beautifully on three hours a night. Others need 14 hours. The wide range can be observed by watching infants."

"Some babies will sleep as few as 10 hours out of the day, while others will sleep as many as 23 out of 24. Those differences among newborns never completely disappear. They remain, to a degree, an aspect of an individual's sleep-style throughout life. The infant who sleeps little probably will grow into an adult who requires less sleep than his neighbor. With so much to be accomplished in this world, he is extremely lucky."

Mrs. Luce's advice: if possible, check your mother about your babyhood sleep habits before saying you didn't get enough sleep last night.

Speaking Of Your Health

Medical curiosities have been a source of interest to doctors and laymen for many years. I came across some of these oddities and I want to share a few with you.

Louis XI of France ruled in the 15th century. Once, when he was sick, an Italian physician who attended him ordered that the windows be tightly shut and prescribed an enema for His Majesty. The king became so convinced of the value of the cleansing of the bowel that after that enemas became a ritual for everybody in the court, including the household pets.

It is said that the king was responsible for the "enema craze" that swept over Europe. Even today, many people are "addicted" to enemas. Enemas are excellent under certain circumstances. They must not be used indiscriminately for long periods of time.

Dr. Meade was the son of a minister. When his practice had just begun and was still very light, he and his father collaborated on a simple method of increasing the practice. The doctor would be listening to his father's sermon when he would, by arrangement, be called out for some "emergency." The father, Reverend

Meade, would then interrupt his sermon and say, "Dear brethren, let me offer a prayer for the safe recovery of the suffering patient to whom my son has gone to administer relief."

A dentist, Dr. Monsey, devised a unique method for the extraction of a tooth. A string attached to the offending tooth led to a bullet, which was inserted in a revolver. When the revolver was fired, the "surgery" was complete.

The earliest record of shock therapy may be attributed to a desperate effort to cure the son of Philip II of Spain. Nothing seemed to arouse him from his bed or take him out of his lethargy. Sudden improvement occurred when 100-year-old bones were dug up from a gravesite and placed in the prince's bed. His remarkable improvement occurred spontaneously when he was "shocked" out of his insistence to stay in bed.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... There are still many curious forms of treatment that are recommended by well-meaning friends and neighbors. If something sounds "curious" to you, check it out first with your doctor!

Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of explanations have been offered for the reluctance of capital spending and the stock market to rise but nobody seems to offer the catastrophe theory.

As expounded by one small investor, Catastrophic Charles, the theory seems to be built on Murphy's Law, which maintains the worst not only can happen but will. The catastrophe theory adds a superstructure of current evidence.

Isn't the dollar in trouble? Aren't Italy and Britain being sucked down the tube? And the rich nations getting richer and the poor poorer? And isn't our very existence threatened by the oil shortage?

The evidence is there if you'll only look about. Did you come to work through the rush hour this morning? Don't you agree that civilization cannot continue this way? And that nobody does anything about it?

Look at the way inflation keeps showing up like the hangman, leering at the helpless victims.

We Americans have been shocked into expecting the worst. Watergate, and Billingsgate every day. Corrupt businessmen and sex-crazed congressmen, and various fat cats purring at the ordinary person's expense.

A sense of the fragility and evanescence of the planet is pervasive. The feeling, for instance, that we'll never be satisfied until we spend ourselves to insensitivity. Or that we'll be blown apart before we can get "them."

A sense of our contradictory nature is an ingredient of the theory. Haven't you asked yourself how we can continue to have the good life while simultaneously despoiling the environment that provides it?

Those big cars! How is it that we keep buying them while understanding perfectly that this can't go on forever or else we'll run out of fuel to power them and space to drive them?

What'll we do about crime in the streets? Dope? Alcohol? Why is the strongest economy in the world not able to figure out its unemployment problem? Will the species survive? Should it?

The nervous system of the person suffering from the catastrophe syndrome is programmed like the experimental guinea pig who is jolted by a charge of electricity whenever it reaches for food.

Catastrophic Charles add to Murphy's Law a belief that you can depend upon the unexpected.

The believer in impending catastrophe feels we'll all get punished for the transgressions, even if others are at fault. Like the person who lives so well on credit and says he'll let his life insurance pay the bills when he's gone, while you dutifully pay your bills and live so poorly.

If you agree with all this you can understand why those who invest and spend haven't been eager to get a piece of the future. As the poor catastrophic sees it, there's nothing out there to bet on anyway.

Governor's Wife Hurt While Skiing

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Gale Thomson, wife of Gov. Meldrim Thomson, has been injured in an accident at Lon Mountain ski area in Lincoln.

A governor's aide said Mrs. Thomson broke her shoulder in a fall recently and would have her arm in a sling for about three weeks.

She was treated at Lynwood Medical Center in Lincoln after her fall and was later placed under the care of a Concord physician, the aide said.

Leonard Garment's Wife Still Missing

NEW YORK (AP) — Nearly six weeks after the wife of former presidential counsel Leonard Garment disappeared, police say they don't know "if she just flipped," "got amnesia," or "knows what she's doing and doesn't want to call home."

Grace Garment, 49, who wrote for the television soap opera "Edge of Night," was last seen on Dec. 3 at Pennsylvania Station in midtown Manhattan, shortly before she had a psychiatric appointment for treatment of depression.

"We're totally in the dark ... The family hasn't heard anything," Sgt. Max Sanders of the Police Department's Missing Persons Squad said in an interview Tuesday. "We follow any leads we get, knowing that only one of the leads will be the good one."

A 13-state alarm has produced no leads, and Sanders said police continue to check "hospitals, morgues and whatnot for unknowns or for persons using any of her names."

"We're in touch with Washington, with the FBI. If they get a tentative from anywhere in the country, they know what we're looking for," Sanders said.

Mrs. Garment, who was wearing a pink turtleneck sweater, brown fur coat and slacks, had been in a hospital and had been very unhappy there, Sanders said. But she was released before Thanksgiving and spent that holiday at the family's home in Brooklyn Heights.

Shortly after she disappeared, an appeal was made during an installment of "The Edge of Night" for her to contact her husband and two children.

"Hopefully, she's all right, she's just not ready to get in touch with her family," Sanders said. "These things have happened."

"Frankly, my feeling is that if she would just call the family to tell them she's all right, they wouldn't be concerned. They'd let her stay where she is for as long as she wants until she's ready to come home."

Garment, counsel to former President Nixon during the Watergate investigation, is now a U.S. representative to the United Nations' Human Rights Commission, and practices law with his old firm of Mudge Rose Guthrie & Alexander.

He did not respond to several telephone calls Tuesday, and no one answered the door at the home in the evening.

Sanders said he has made periodic painful calls to Garment in which each man reports he has nothing to tell the other.

Ohioans Seek Loose Cash

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Thousands of Ohioans have inquired about millions of dollars in unclaimed money the state Department of Commerce is holding.

I. Charles Rhoads, deputy director of the Commerce Department, said more than 450 checks were recently awaiting processing for those Ohioans who have successfully proved the money is owed them.

The state advertised in mid-December to find some 240,000 Ohioans, former Ohioans and their heirs who are entitled to shares of $18.5 million in unclaimed accounts of financial institutions.

The money was left in savings accounts and safety deposit boxes that have not been used for five to 15 years.

J. Gordon Peltier, commerce director, estimated that 10,000 persons wrote response to the advertisements.

Rhoads estimates it now takes a minimum of six weeks to determine the final validity of an applicant for the money.

He said state law provides that the department advertise the unclaimed money once a year. The next publication of a list of those who are owed money will be advertised at the end of 1977.

Meanwhile, Rhoads said, a list of the fund owners is available in each county's treasurer's office.

ERA Amendment Faces Problems

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The proposal to ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution sailed through the House on second reading Tuesday, making it eligible for a final vote.

But as ERA went through the stage at which amendments may be added, proponents said their support was dwindling. Eleanor Smeal, head of the National Organization of Women, said the latest tally showed only 51 solid votes for ERA. That's the minimum for passage in the House.

The Indiana Advisory Committee to the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights called on the legislature to ratify ERA. In a statement sent to Gov. Otis R. Bowen, the committee noted, "Indiana is a critical state for the future of equal rights for men and women."

A Page Of Opinion

Now They Protest

Whatever the leading anti-Vietnam war protesters of the 1960s expected would happen when the United States withdrew its forces and the North Vietnamese won victory, at least 90 of them are sufficiently aroused to stage another protest? this one against Hanoi's repression of South Vietnam.

In a petition to Dinh Ba Thi, the Vietnamese UN representative, the 90 — led by such well-known protesters as Joan Baez, Paul O'Dwyer, Allen Ginsberg, Roger Baldwin and Rep. Edward Koch — accused the communist regime of "grievous and systematic violations of human rights."

Citing the detention of hundreds of thousands of South Vietnamese in "re-education" camps, the repression of cultural and political expression and "gross abuses" of civil liberties, the protesters asked for on-the-spot inspections of the detention camps by neutral observers and the release of persons imprisoned for political or religious convictions.

They have a fat chance of receiving any affirmative response to their requests. The war is over, the communists won and they are not about to change their stripes because some naive Americans now express dismay at the results.

"The actions of your government," the petitioners said, "constitute a great disappointment to all those who expected not the bloodbath so eagerly predicted by the American White House, but rather an example of reconciliation built on tolerance."

What the petitioners seem to be saying is they regret having to admit the White House assessment of the consequences of a communist victory was correct. At least these 90 no longer are among the many who have remained silent through the horrible events of the war's aftermath.

Coffee Boycott

By PHYLLIS BATTELE
NEW YORK — The nationwide coffee boycott appears to be proceeding sluggishly.

"We're trying," leered our local supermarket manager this week, "but we can't seem to get our customers off the grounds. Get it?"

There was light applause from the checkout clerk, who had spent a hectic day totting up hundreds of cans of Martinson's coffee, the coupon special at $1.89 a pound. "As long as people can pick up coffee at under $2 a pound on special, the boycott isn't going to work," she observed wisely. "Women are hoarding it. They aren't buying any more tea than usual."

Even Elinor Guggenheimer, the consumer affairs commissioner of New York City who began the boycott movement, concedes that it's a tough go, trying to lower prices through popular abstention of the national drink.

Americans are a peculiarly perverse people. After cigarette packages were labeled "dangerous to your health," people began smoking more cigarettes than ever. Telling them they shouldn't drink coffee appears to be having a similar effect — causing them to cherish, rather than forgo, the product.

We are annoyed at high prices, but we're even more miffed at being told what not to do. At the very least, we're apathetic.

And the apathetic American typically reaches for a cup of coffee to give him a needed surge of energy.

Mrs. Guggenheimer warns that if we don't wake up (unfortunately, we also take coffee to wake up), we may see coffee prices "rise to $3.50 a pound, to $4 or heaven knows where." And that may do it. But then it may be too late.

Already, according to a report in the Wall Street Journal, green coffee costs have more than tripled in the last 18 months, and we haven't really begun to see these prices reflected in the roasted coffee prices on the market shelves. Beans from Colombia, for example, recently sold up to $2.27 a pound, compared with 71 cents in mid-1975. So we are currently buying canned coffee, on special, at the market price of the raw beans. Brazilian beans, likewise, are now selling to roasters at $2.50 a pound, up from 69 cents 18 months ago.

Why the rise? Adverse weather in the coffee-growing belts: too much cold here, too much rain there. The problem has just begun.

Under the circumstances, it would seem that the boycott concept was started too soon. Customers across the country are not yet sufficiently irate. There was still "bargain shopping" available to them.

"People are foolish to pay these current prices for coffee," says the supermarket manager. But here foolishness is not sufficient cause to switch a life-long addict into a tea-totaller.

When the prices become "insane" — and they probably will — that's when the boycott will stand a chance.

The Life Extension Institute in New York revealed as good a reason as any for cutting down on coffee consumption.

It studied 2,000 executives, and discovered that only 60.3 per cent of them reported they slept well in the 1970s.

In a similar study made in the 1950s, 90 per cent of the business bosses slept well.

This indicated that the number of people who have trouble getting a good night's sleep (or the perception of a good night's sleep — seven to nine hours) has risen from 10 to 40 per cent over a period of 20 years.

The most insomniacal of executives were those over 56 years of age — in other words, those mature enough to be worried — and those involved in marketing and production.

Is this a sign that times are more pressured and tense now than they were in the 1950s? Or that men do not need as much sleep as they think they do?

Mrs. Gay Gaer Luce, an expert on sleep rhythms, would vote for the second conclusion. "Everyone on earth," she told us, "has a different sleep quota — but society has somehow given us the impression that we all need seven to nine hours' sleep to function well. If we don't get that much, we're inclined to think we've had a 'bad night.'"

"Many people function beautifully on three hours a night. Others need 14 hours. The wide range can be observed by watching infants."

"Some babies will sleep as few as 10 hours out of the day, while others will sleep as many as 23 out of 24. Those differences among newborns never completely disappear. They remain, to a degree, an aspect of an individual's sleep-style throughout life. The infant who sleeps little probably will grow into an adult who requires less sleep than his neighbor. With so much to be accomplished in this world, he is extremely lucky."

Mrs. Luce's advice: if possible, check your mother about your babyhood sleep habits before saying you didn't get enough sleep last night.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Jan. 13, the 13th day of 1977. There are 352 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1733, James Oglethorpe and some 130 English colonists arrived at Charleston, S.C., to settle in what is now the state of Georgia.

On this date — In 1419, the English captured the French city of Rouen.

In 1813, in the War of 1812, the British blockaded Chesapeake and Delaware Bays.

In 1848, Canada's Vancouver Island was acquired by Hudson's Bay Company.

In 1864, the American composer Stephen Foster died penniless in New York's Bellevue Hospital.

In 1915, an earthquake in central Italy killed 30,000 people.

In 1935, the Saar voted to return to Germany after being administered by France under League of Nations supervision.

Ten years ago: Military leaders in the African country of Togo seized power in a bloodless coup.

Five years ago: Army officers overthrew the civilian government in Ghana.

One year ago: Japan indicated it was ready to sign a World War II peace treaty with mainland China.

Today's birthday: Entertainer Ralph Edwards is 64.

Thought for today: Worse than a quitter is the person who is afraid to begin. — Anonymous.

LAFF - A - DAY

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Medical curiosities have been a source of interest to doctors and laymen for many years. I came across some of these oddities and I want to share a few with you.

Louis XI of France ruled in the 15th century. Once, when he was sick, an Italian physician who attended him ordered that the windows be tightly shut and prescribed an enema for His Majesty. The king became so convinced of the value of the cleansing of the bowel that after that enemas became a ritual for everybody in the court, including the household pets.

It is said that the king was responsible for the "enema craze" that swept over Europe. Even today, many people are "addicted" to enemas. Enemas are excellent under certain circumstances. They must not be used indiscriminately for long periods of time.

Dr. Meade was the son of a minister. When his practice had just begun and was still very light, he and his father collaborated on a simple method of increasing the practice. The doctor would be listening to his father's sermon when he would, by arrangement, be called out for some "emergency." The father, Reverend

Meade, would then interrupt his sermon and say, "Dear brethren, let me offer a prayer for the safe recovery of the suffering patient to whom my son has gone to administer relief."

A dentist, Dr. Monsey, devised a unique method for the extraction of a tooth. A string attached to the offending tooth led to a bullet, which was inserted in a revolver. When the revolver was fired, the "surgery" was complete.

The earliest record of shock therapy may be attributed to a desperate effort to cure the son of Philip II of Spain. Nothing seemed to arouse him from his bed or take him out of his lethargy. Sudden improvement occurred when 100-year-old bones were dug up from a gravesite and placed in the prince's bed. His remarkable improvement occurred spontaneously when he was "shocked" out of his insistence to stay in bed.

SPEAKING OF YOUR HEALTH... There are still many curious forms of treatment that are recommended by well-meaning friends and neighbors. If something sounds "curious" to you, check it out first with your doctor!

Business World

By JOHN CUNNEIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of explanations have been offered for the reluctance of capital spending and the stock market to rise but nobody seems to offer the catastrophe theory.

As expounded by one small investor, Catastrophic Charlies, the theory seems to be built on Murphy's Law, which maintains the worst not only can happen but will. The catastrophe theory adds a superstructure of current evidence.

Isn't the dollar in trouble? Aren't Italy and Britain being sucked down the tube? And the rich nations getting richer and the poor poorer? And isn't our very existence threatened by the oil shortage?

The evidence is there if you'll only look about. Did you come to work through the rush hour this morning? Don't you agree that civilization cannot continue this way? And that nobody does anything about it?

Look at the way inflation keeps shadowing up like the hangman, leering at the helpless victims.

We Americans have been shocked into expecting the worst. Watergate, and Billingsgate every day. Corrupt businessmen and sex-crazed congressmen, and various fat cats purring at the ordinary person's expense.

A sense of the fragility and evanescence of the planet is pervasive. The feeling, for instance, that we'll never be satisfied until we spend ourselves to insensitivity. Or that we'll be blown apart before we can get "them."

The annual Congregational meeting at St. Jacob's Lutheran Church will be held immediately following the morning worship service on Sunday, January 16th.

During the morning worship service at the Methodist Church on Jan. 16, there will be an installation service for all officers of the church, Sunday school teachers and United Methodist Women.

Abby and Jason Morrison were honored guests at a birthday party given by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morrison, at their home on Jan. 8. Both children have the same birthdate, with Abby being six and Jason three.

Guests were Gary Herron, Amy Runkle, Laura Coursan, Brian Compton, Leslie Riddle, Melissa Downs, Tracy Reichelderfer, Jim Jenkins, Robin and Angie Morrison and Amy, Jody and Troy Miller, their grandpa and grandma Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Morrison, Mary Miller and Joyce Pine. The honored guests also received a gift and card from their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Linton of Dayton.

Games were played and prizes won by Gary Herron, Brian Compton and Amy and Jody Miller.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served and party favors were given to each child to take home.

The Saltcreek-Tarlton Firemen met on Dec. 22 for their monthly meeting. After sacking the Christmas treat for the community children, officers were elected for the coming year.

New officers are: president, George Coursan, vice-president, Danny Turvey, treasurer, Lester Miller, secretary, Paul Beery, news-reporter, Ray McJunkin.

Man Hurt In Crash

Michael R. Forquer, 24, 5767 Bell Station Road, suffered minor injuries when his car struck another vehicle 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred at the intersection of the Bell Station Road and the Walnut Creek Pike, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff J. Phillip Brown.

Driver of the other car was Michael R. Perkins, 32, Route 1, Ashville. Passengers were Terry L. Perkins, 25, and Julie R. Perkins, 6½ months. Deputy Brown said Perkins was driving north on the Walnut Creek Pike when Forquer failed to heed a stop sign and crashed into the left rear of his car.

Forquer told the deputy that he fell asleep. He was cited for a stop sign violation.

Panel On Juvenile Problems To Meet

Representatives of the organizations working with Circle Forum on juvenile problems will meet noon Friday at the Red Cross Office.

The Tarlton Emergency Medical Team met recently at the home of Glenn Pearce, with money making projects being discussed. Those attending were Lester Miller, Toots Smith, Donna Derexson, Glenn Pearce, Ray and Betty McJunkin and Dave and Cathy Frazier.

Members wish to thank those of the community who have given donations to help pay for the emergency vehicle. Anyone needing the squads assistance should call 474-2176.

Tuesday luncheon guests of Mrs. Ray McJunkin were Mrs. Woodrow Sherick, Springfield, Mrs. Tony Wagner, Boulder, Colorado and Mrs. Bill Crowell and Amie, Lancaster.

David Ballard, Dallas, Texas, spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballard. David called his family in Dallas on Sunday night and learned they were having winter there, too, with ice and 12 degree weather.

In a visit with Mrs. David (Aunt Lou) Singleton, it was a rare privilege to see the invitation she had received to attend the Presidential Inauguration in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 20.

Mrs. Singleton will not attend the ceremony, but she said that had she received such an invitation 20 years ago, she surely would have gone.

Lucia Spangler and Ella Mae Jenkins hosted the January meeting of the United Methodist Women in the church social room on Wednesday afternoon.

Members sang "In the Garden" and "Amazing Grace" and Margie Downs led the Call to Prayer and Self Denial Service. Using as her topic "The Worlds of Women Prayer." A special offering was taken for the Prayer and Self Denial cause.

A note from Brown Memorial thanked members for jewelry given to the home for distribution to patients. A Christmas card and photo was received from the society's Indonesian orphan. Margie Downs and Dyantha Carnes contributed to the birthday fund.

The program included readings by Marie Karr and Ella Mae Jenkins. Vocal solos by Letha Murray and quiz by Margie Downs.

Thirteen members and five guests enjoyed refreshments at tables decorated with red, white and blue table cloths and napkins and red tapers.

GOP Finds Ample Cash In Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party has a healthy bank balance and a $1 million trust fund to pay any leftover bills of a campaign in which President Ford's organization appears to have shortchanged itself.

A party official said $1.8 million raised by the Republican National Committee and earmarked for the Ford campaign went unspent because nobody asked for it.

"If we'd known they weren't going to use it, we could have spent it on congressional campaigns," the official said.

In addition, the Ford campaign apparently spent substantially less than the law allowed in public funds.

The final accounting is not yet complete, and there may still be campaign bills to be paid. Final reports on the expenditures of both President Ford and President-elect Carter are due by Jan. 31.

The reports of unspent Republican campaign funds came Tuesday amid maneuvering over selection of a new GOP national chairman on Friday.

Ford had endorsed James A. Baker III, his former campaign manager, to take over the party chairmanship, but Baker withdrew on Monday, saying it was clear his candidacy would not contribute to Republican unity.

It was evident that rival Republicans were prepared to challenge Baker's management of the Ford campaign because of the money that went unspent in the close contest with Carter.

But William Greener, spokesman for the President Ford Committee during the campaign, said that was not a factor in Baker's decision. Greener said no campaign task went undone for lack of funds. He said there was a tendency to hold down spending because of the rigorous limits imposed by the new campaign finance system. "One thing was certain, we weren't going to overspend," he said.

Tarlton News

MRS. JOE JENKINS — 474-5542

The annual Congregational meeting at St. Jacob's Lutheran Church will be held immediately following the morning worship service on Sunday, January 16th.

During the morning worship service at the Methodist Church on Jan. 16, there will be an installation service for all officers of the church, Sunday school teachers and United Methodist Women.

Abby and Jason Morrison were honored guests at a birthday party given by their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Morrison, at their home on Jan. 8. Both children have the same birthdate, with Abby being six and Jason three.

Guests were Gary Herron, Amy Runkle, Laura Coursan, Brian Compton, Leslie Riddle, Melissa Downs, Tracy Reichelderfer, Jim Jenkins, Robin and Angie Morrison and Amy, Jody and Troy Miller, their grandma and grandpa Jenkins, Mr. and Mrs. Dave Morrison, Mary Miller and Joyce Pine. The honored guests also received a gift and card from their aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Phil Linton of Dayton.

Games were played and prizes won by Gary Herron, Brian Compton and Amy and Jody Miller.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake and lemonade were served and party favors were given to each child to take home.

The Saltcreek-Tarlton Firemen met on Dec. 22 for their monthly meeting. After sacking the Christmas treat for the community children, officers were elected for the coming year.

New officers are: president, George Coursan, vice-president, Danny Turvey, treasurer, Lester Miller, secretary, Paul Beery, news-reporter, Ray McJunkin.

Man Hurt In Crash

Michael R. Forquer, 24, 5767 Bell Station Road, suffered minor injuries when his car struck another vehicle 4:40 p.m. Wednesday.

The accident occurred at the intersection of the Bell Station Road and the Walnut Creek Pike, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff J. Phillip Brown.

Driver of the other car was Michael R. Perkins, 32, Route 1, Ashville. Passengers were Terry L. Perkins, 25, and Julie R. Perkins, 6½ months.

Deputy Brown said Perkins was driving north on the Walnut Creek Pike when Forquer failed to heed a stop sign and crashed into the left rear of his car.

Forquer told the deputy that he fell asleep. He was cited for a stop sign violation.

Panel On Juvenile Problems To Meet

Representatives of the organizations working with Circle Forum on juvenile problems will meet noon Friday at the Red Cross Office.

The Tarlton Emergency Medical Team met recently at the home of Glenn Pearce, with money making projects being discussed. Those attending were Lester Miller, Toots Smith, Donna Derexson, Glenn Pearce, Ray and Betty McJunkin and Dave and Cathy Frazier.

Members wish to thank those of the community who have given donations to help pay for the emergency vehicle.

Anyone needing the squads assistance should call 474-2176.

Tuesday luncheon guests of Mrs. Ray McJunkin were Mrs. Woodrow Sherick, Springfield, Mrs. Tony Wagner, Boulder, Colorado and Mrs. Bill Crowell and Amie, Lancaster.

David Ballard, Dallas, Texas, spent several days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ballard. David called his family in Dallas on Sunday night and learned they were having winter there, too, with ice and 12 degree weather.

In a visit with Mrs. David (Aunt Lou) Singleton, it was a rare privilege to see the invitation she had received to attend the Presidential Inauguration in Washington, D.C., on Jan. 20.

Mrs. Singleton will not attend the ceremony, but she said that had she received such an invitation 20 years ago, she surely would have gone.

Lucia Spangler and Ella Mae Jenkins hosted the January meeting of the United Methodist Women in the church social room on Wednesday afternoon.

Members sang "In the Garden" and "Amazing Grace" and Margie Downs led the Call to Prayer and Self Denial Service. Using as her topic "The Worlds of Women Prayer." A special offering was taken for the Prayer and Self Denial cause.

A note from Brown Memorial thanked members for jewelry given to the home for distribution to patients. A Christmas card and photo was received from the society's Indonesian orphan. Margie Downs and Dyantha Carnes contributed to the birthday fund.

The program included readings by Marie Karr and Ella Mae Jenkins. Vocal solos by Letha Murray and quiz by Margie Downs.

Thirteen members and five guests enjoyed refreshments at tables decorated with red, white and blue table cloths and napkins and red tapers.

GOP Finds Ample Cash In Treasury

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republican party has a healthy bank balance and a $1 million trust fund to pay any leftover bills of a campaign in which President Ford's organization appears to have shortchanged itself.

A party official said $1.8 million raised by the Republican National Committee and earmarked for the Ford campaign went unspent because nobody asked for it.

"If we'd known they weren't going to use it, we could have spent it on congressional campaigns," the official said.

In addition, the Ford campaign apparently spent substantially less than the law allowed in public funds.

The final accounting is not yet complete, and there may still be campaign bills to be paid. Final reports on the expenditures of both President Ford and President-elect Carter are due by Jan. 31.

The reports of unspent Republican campaign funds came Tuesday amid maneuvering over selection of a new GOP national chairman on Friday.

Ford had endorsed James A. Baker III, his former campaign manager, to take over the party chairmanship, but Baker withdrew on Monday, saying it was clear his candidacy would not contribute to Republican unity.

It was evident that rival Republicans were prepared to challenge Baker's management of the Ford campaign because of the money that went unspent in the close contest with Carter.

But William Greener, spokesman for the President Ford Committee during the campaign, said that was not a factor in Baker's decision. Greener said no campaign task went undone for lack of funds. He said there was a tendency to hold down spending because of the rigorous limits imposed by the new campaign finance system. "One thing was certain, we weren't going to overspend," he said.

Chaplin Paul Pusey Promoted By Army

Chaplain Paul M. Pusey, US Army, a former resident of Pickaway County, was recently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He is currently stationed at the Air National Guard Base at Selfridge, Michigan where he processes clergymen for active-duty commissions and facilitates all US Army Reserve Component Chaplains in the States of Michigan and Indiana.

Chaplain Pusey is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. A. E. Pusey, retired, who reside in Jefferson Addition. Chaplain Pusey and his wife Lucy have three children: Paul Lawrence, a graduate student working on a Ph. D degree at Ohio State, Stephen Mark and his wife Gail are employed by the Teays Valley School District; and Timothy Brent, a senior, music major, at Trevecca Nazarene College, Nashville, Tenn.

Chaplain Pusey pastored 10 years in Ohio prior to going on active duty with the US Army in 1967. Since 1967 he has had two combat tours in South Vietnam, and has been stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, Fort Eustis, Virginia, and the US Army Chaplain School and Center at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, N.Y.

Chaplain Pusey holds the Th. B

PAUL M. PUSEY

degree from Olivet Nazarene College, the Master of Divinity degree from The Nazarene Theological Seminary, the Master of Science degree from Long Island University. Additional graduate studies have been taken at Drake University, Oberlin School of Theology, Central Baptist Theological Seminary, and Princeton University.

Don't Take Chances With This Sickness

DEAR ABBY: Reading about the father who molested his daughter has given me the courage to write.

Quite a few years ago, when my daughter was 12, I learned that her father had been bothering her. (She finally got scared and told me.) It happened over several months. It was only serious foreplay, but I felt it would lead to the final act sooner or later.

I confronted her father, and he admitted it. I told him he was sick, and he had to either see a doctor or leave. He refused to see a doctor, so needless to say, he is not with us any longer.

I should have realized something was wrong sooner because my daughter never wanted to be left alone with him. She begged to go everywhere I went.

My daughter feels that I did the right thing in giving her father an ultimatum. However, my doctor told me I handled it badly. He said that sort of thing is quite common and had I let it go, it probably would not have gone any farther. He said most mothers just put a lock on the girl's door.

I would like your comments on this.

Evel Knievel Signs Contract

NEW YORK (AP) — Daredevil Evel Knievel has signed a long-term contract with ABC to perform motorcycle jumps and to serve as a commentator for stunts performed by others.

Roon Arledge, president of ABC Sports, said part of the agreement calls for Knievel, 38, to attempt at least one major jump a year to be telecast on the network's "Wide World of Sports."

Another part of the agreement calls for Knievel to deliver commentary on the program for a minimum of three stunts a year performed by others.

The amount of the contract with Knievel was not disclosed.

DINNER FOR FOUR

Roast chicken, chestnut dressing, broccoli, salad bowl, pear pudding, coffee.

Chestnut Dressing

For once there'll be enough chestnuts in the stuffing!

1/4 cup butter
Medium-small onion, finely chopped (1-3rd cup)

1-3rd cup (generous) herb-seasoned crumb-type package bread stuffing
2 cups coarsely broken moist-cooked chestnuts

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

In the hot butter gently cook the onion until yellowed. Off heat stir in the remaining ingredients. Use to stuff body cavity of a 4-pound roasting chicken, closing cavity with needle and thread or skewers. Roast according to your favorite method. No liquid is added to this stuffing because the juices form the chicken and the moist chestnuts add enough — this is a buttery dry dressing. One pound of chestnuts in their shell should yield an ample amount, after they are cooked, for this recipe.

DINNER PARTY

Half-shell avocados, beef brisket, bulgar pilaf, broccoli, salad bowl, orange meringue, coffee.

Half-Shell Avocados

Usually well-received!

1-3rd cup (generous) olive oil
1-3rd cup (generous) chili sauce
1/4 cup red wine vinegar
2 teaspoons salt

3 ripe medium-size avocados

Whisk together all the ingredients except the avocado to make a dressing; chill. At serving time, cut avocados in half length-wise; remove seeds but do not peel. Place each half on a salad-size plate; whisk the dressing again and spoon about a tablespoon of it into each avocado cavity. Serve at once with teaspoons. Pass any extra dressing. Makes 6 servings. (The dressing may seem salty at the first bite of avocado, but it won't as the rest of the avocado is eaten.)

Registered Nurses Hear Speaker

Dr. Father Lucas Tupper, was the guest speaker of the Pickaway County Registered Nurses Assn., meeting held recently at Berger Hospital.

Dr. Tupper, an ophthalmology resident at Ohio State University Hospital, Columbus related to the group some interesting facts of his life, his medical practice, his tour in Brazil and becoming a Franciscan priest.

Refreshments were served during the social hour that followed the meeting by the hostess, Mrs. Joyce Peters.

Chaplin Paul Pusey Promoted By Army

Chaplain Paul M. Pusey, US Army, a former resident of Pickaway County, was recently promoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel. He is currently stationed at the Air National Guard Base at Selfridge, Michigan where he processes clergymen for active-duty commissions and facilitates all US Army Reserve Component Chaplains in the States of Michigan and Indiana.

Chaplain Pusey is the son of the Reverend and Mrs. A. E. Pusey, retired, who reside in Jefferson Addition. Chaplain Pusey and his wife Lucy have three children: Paul Lawrence, a graduate student working on a Ph. D degree at Ohio State, Stephen Mark and his wife Gail are employed by the Teays Valley School District; and Timothy Brent, a senior, music major, at Trevecca Nazarene College, Nashville, Tenn.

Chaplain Pusey pastored 10 years in Ohio prior to going on active duty with the US Army in 1967. Since 1967 he has had two combat tours in South Vietnam, and has been stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, Fort Eustis, Virginia, and the US Army Chaplain School and Center at Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, N.Y.

Chaplain Pusey holds the Th. B

PAUL M. PUSEY

degree from Olivet Nazarene College, the Master of Divinity degree from The Nazarene Theological Seminary, the Master of Science degree from Long Island University. Additional graduate studies have been taken at Drake University, Oberlin School of Theology, Central Baptist Theological Seminary, and Princeton University.

Urge Cabinet Post On Juveniles

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A state official working with juvenile matters says he would like to see the legislature establish a cabinet level post to coordinate youth services.

But Seth Watterson, coordinator of the governor's Juvenile Justice Advisory Committee, says he knows that's a long way off.

As a first step toward that long-range goal, Watterson said, the committee has written a set of standards and now is taking them around the state for a series of seven hearings.

"We want to emphasize that our document is only preliminary. The hearings are structured so that we will take only about 20 minutes at the start and leave the rest of the time for citizens to tell us what they think," Watterson said.

"What we've tried to do is to show that if a problem is identified early enough delinquency is avoidable. If we could offer reading assistance, for example, early enough we might avoid truancy," he said.

The first hearing on the committee's set of goals and standards was to have been at 10 a.m. today at the Ohio University Baker Student Center in Athens.

Watterson said the program has its roots in the U.S. Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Indiana. Ohio decided to participate in August 1975 and Gov. James A. Rhodes appointed an advisory commission in March of last year. H. Robert Weintzen, an executive with Procter & Gamble in Cincinnati, is chairman.

In June last year the committee began its study which wasn't finished until last month.

"We've looked at every way society enters a child's life," Watterson said. "And we've tried to bring together the existing services in a rational order."

Now that the 21-member committee has compiled its recommendations, it has sent them to several youth agencies, including each of the state's school districts, and is asking for suggestions from laymen and professionals alike.

Once the hearings are over, Watterson said, the material gathered in the study and hearings will be published "we hope by next April or May."

"Ultimately we would like to see the legislature pass a bill setting up a mechanism whereby state funds could be sent to local governments for work on youth services. We would like to see a cabinet level post established for coordinating youth services," Watterson said.

Subsequent hearings will be Jan. 19 at the University of Dayton John F. Kennedy Building; Jan. 21 at the Bowling Green University Union; Jan. 26 at the Kent State University Student Center; Jan. 28 at the State Office Tower in Columbus; and Feb. 4 at the Cleveland State University Center Building. All hearings will begin at 10 a.m.

FIRE AND ICE — Icicles form over face of building and along balconies and stairway of fire escapes as fire hose sprays water into smoky remains of a warehouse complex of New York's lower West Side. Athletes' Families Rip Daoud Freedom

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Families of the 11 athletes killed at the Munich Olympics meet today with Foreign Minister Yigal Allon to press their demand for the expulsion of French Ambassador Jean Herly in retaliation for the release of Palestinian leader Abu Daoud.

Allon also scheduled a meeting with advisers to discuss what other protest his government might make over the French government's refusal to hold the man accused of commanding the terrorist attack on the Israeli team at the 1972 Olympics.

"We will continue to insist that the ambassador be thrown out," said Ilana Romano, widow of weightlifter Yosef Romano.

"Let him go back to France where he belongs, among the cowards and the traitors," said Anka Spitzer, widow of fencer Andre Spitzer.

Israeli outrage was heightened by the report from Paris that the French government had made a $1.2-billion deal to sell Egypt 200 Mirage fighter-bombers. It was generally assumed that the deal was a big factor in the French decision to free Daoud before Israeli or West German demands for his extradition could reach Paris.

Daoud told a news conference in Algiers the Palestinian movement would "continue to improve" its relations with France "to the maximum." He said he had been arrested by French police officers working "in the interests of Zionism."

Nearly 1,000 demonstrators crowded outside the French embassy in Tel Aviv Wednesday, vilifying French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing with obscenities and chants of "Giscard terrorist." Eggs and fruit were thrown at a man who appeared on a balcony of the building.

Israel recalled its ambassador to France "for consultations" as an expression of protest. Ambassador Herly was summoned to the Foreign Ministry in Jerusalem, and Deputy Director-General Ephraim Evron told him the French government had encouraged Arab terrorism, violated the French-Israeli extradition treaty and committed "a hostile act" against Israel.

The West German and the U.S.

governments also expressed disapproval of Daoud's release, but State Department spokesman Robert L. Funseth said his government did not expect it to have an adverse effect on U.S. relations with France.

Ohio Bell Sets Listing Change

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Bell Telephone Co. says it will list the first names of both husbands and wives in the telephone book at no extra charge.

A spokesman for the telephone company said directories will accept listings of "Smith, John and Mary," or "Smith, Mary and John." But couples who cannot agree on whose name will go first can be listed both ways on separate lines for 60 cents a month.

Ohio Bell expects to receive Public Utilities Commission of Ohio permission for the change in time for the May publication deadline for the Columbus directory.

Watterson said the program has its roots in the U.S. Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974, sponsored by Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Indiana. Ohio decided to participate in August 1975 and Gov. James A. Rhodes appointed an advisory commission in March of last year. H. Robert Weintzen, an executive with Procter & Gamble in Cincinnati, is chairman.

In June last year the committee began its study which wasn't finished until last month.

"We've looked at every way society enters a child's life," Watterson said. "And we've tried to bring together the existing services in a rational order."

Now that the 21-member committee has compiled its recommendations, it has sent them to several youth agencies, including each of the state's school districts, and is asking for suggestions from laymen and professionals alike.

Once the hearings are over, Watterson said, the material gathered in the study and hearings will be published "we hope by next April or May."

"Ultimately we would like to see the legislature pass a bill setting up a mechanism whereby state funds could be sent to local governments for work on youth services. We would like to see a cabinet level post established for coordinating youth services," Watterson said.

Subsequent hearings will be Jan. 19 at the University of Dayton John F. Kennedy Building; Jan. 21 at the Bowling Green University Union; Jan. 26 at the Kent State University Student Center; Jan. 28 at the State Office Tower in Columbus; and Feb. 4 at the Cleveland State University Center Building. All hearings will begin at 10 a.m.

Mercedes-Benz Still King Of Autos

STUTTGART, West Germany (AP) — Business is booming for Mercedes, glamorous star of West German automaking, even though most Germans have to wait two years for one of its products.

"Germans come to us and say, 'My Mercedes has gone 72,000 miles and I want a new one,' and we have to tell them, 'Kindly wait two years,'" says Joachim Zahn, chief of Daimler-Benz, maker of the automobile.

But the snob appeal of the Mercedes is strong enough that Germans are usually willing to wait. And Daimler-Benz cars and trucks brought in a record $9.58 billion in sales last year. "We could never afford to offer Americans a two-year delivery," says Zahn, "so now our domestic market suffers by giving preference to exports."

Germans who don't want to wait can buy from Daimler-Benz employees, who get first priority, even over the U.S. export market. They also get a 21.5 per cent discount on the cars, the cheapest of which sells for the equivalent in marks of $7,600 in West Germany.

U.S. prices went up 10.2 per cent for 1977 models and start at $11,346 for a four-cylinder diesel 240D sedan. They stop at $26,559 for the 450SLC eight-cylinder sports sedan.

Daimler-Benz sold 41,000 cars in North America in 1976, down 4,000 from the year before. But the decline is blamed on a shortage of cars for the company's top export market.

Most Mercedes owners in West Germany write off the luxury cars as business expenses — 56 per cent are owned by industrialists, salesmen, doctors or other self-employed people. Another 4 per cent are owned by companies or government agencies.

West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt and his 15-member cabinet ride in Mercedes autos and 100 German ambassadors use them at foreign posts.

Mercedes cars aren't just for the rich and famous. Virtually all West German taxis are Mercedes.

When Israeli commandos rescued 100 airline hijack victims in Uganda last July 3, they reportedly got the jump in their raid by driving up to the Entebbe terminal in a Mercedes they thought was similar to President Idi Amin's official limousine.

A Mercedes star revolves on a hotel overlooking Schmidt's chancellery in Bonn and to many foreign visitors the emblem is more familiar than the West German flag.

The Mercedes trademark star is such a symbol of German quality in the export market that Schmidt intervened to assure that Daimler-Benz stayed in German hands.

The powerful Friedrich Flick industrial group — once a backer of Adolf Hitler, put 29 per cent of the company up for sale in 1975. That prompted offers from Middle East interests, which Schmidt rejected.

"Such undertakings could not be tolerated either by the employees of Daimler-Benz, the standing of the German economy or our own self-respect," Schmidt said.

Richardson Adds Watergate Footnote

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a footnote to the history of Watergate, Elliot L. Richardson discloses that then-President Richard M. Nixon sought to shame him into abandoning, or delaying, his resignation as attorney general in 1973.

Richardson, who quit office rather than obey Nixon's order to fire Special Watergate Prosecutor Archibald Cox, also says he believes the former president, and his White House staff chief, Gen. Alexander Haig, exaggerated dangers of an American-Soviet military confrontation "to shake my resolve" to quit.

The drama that became known as the "Saturday Night Massacre" was enacted on Oct. 20, 1973, when Arab and Israeli forces were locked in combat and American and Soviet authorities were bracing.

Richardson confirmed in an interview this week that after he refused to fire Cox and instead submitted his resignation, he was asked by Nixon to do one of two things: either, in view of the national emergency then existing, not to resign at all, or to defer his resignation until the emergency with the Soviets had passed.

Richardson related that his meeting that night with Nixon at the White House was lowkeyed but tense with a lot left unsaid.

According to one new account, Nixon told him that to delay his resignation would be to serve the national interest. Richardson then replied in so many words: "You, Mr. President, should have thought of that before."

Asked in the interview if this account was accurate Richardson responded: "Well, that's approximately correct."

Richardson, commerce secretary in President Ford's outgoing administration, then went into greater detail: "He (Nixon) said to me in effect he regretted that I did not see fit to put the national interest ahead of my personal commitments."

"I replied to him with some force that I believed that what I was doing was in the national interest."

At this point Richardson recalled that Nixon then remarked: "Evidently we do not perceive the national interest in the same way."

Herald Co. Buys Booth Newspapers

NEW YORK (AP) — The Herald Co. has acquired 99.8 per cent of the shares of Booth Newspapers, Inc., bringing the estimated cost to the Herald Co. for the group to more than $300 million, a record price for purchase of a newspaper property.

The previous high transaction was the merger of Speidel Newspapers into the Gannett newspapers group. The agreement, announced Dec. 20, involved $173 million.

The Herald Co., based in Syracuse, N.Y., is owned by newspaper publisher S. I. Newhouse.

The Herald Co., which had earlier paid $47 million for 25 per cent of Booth stock, announced Monday that it had acquired 5,480,543 remaining shares of Booth common stock as of last Friday, when its offer to pay $47 a share expired. All shares offered were purchased, it said.

Booth publishes eight daily newspapers in Michigan, a group of weeklies in the Cleveland area and Parade Magazine, a Sunday supplement.

The Los Angeles Times Mirror had offered $40 a share for Booth stock but dropped out of the bidding after Newhouse offered $47.

The Booth newspapers include the Ann Arbor News, Bay City Times, Flint Journal, Grand Rapids Press, Jackson Citizen Patriot, Kalamazoo Gazette, Muskegon Chronicle and Saginaw News.

The Ajanta Caves, a group of about 30 caves in Maharashtra State, India, are famous for their wall paintings, executed by Buddhist painter-priests from about 200 B.C. to 200 A.D.

Mrs. Niehous Denies Spouse CIA Agent

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Donna Niehous denied in a newspaper interview published Wednesday that her husband, a business executive abducted nearly a year ago, was associated with the CIA or was active in politics.

She also revealed plans to visit Venezuela to prod officials to press their search for her missing husband.

Her comments appeared in the independent Caracas newspaper, El Nacional. Mrs. Niehous, 46, was interviewed at her home in Toledo, Ohio, to which she returned after her husband was abducted by seven gunmen who broke into their Caracas residence Feb. 27, 1976.

William Niehous, 45, was manager of Venezuelan operations for the Ohio-based Owens-Illinois Glass Co.

Shortly after his abduction, persons who identified themselves as members of the "Revolutionary Command Group, Operation Agrimiro Gabaldon" claimed responsibility for the kidnapping. The small, ultra-leftist guerrilla band accused Niehous of meddling in Venezuela's internal economic and political affairs.

Asked by the interviewer whether Niehous ever was an agent for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency, she replied: "That is not true. My husband never was active in politics. In the United States he is a member of the Republican party but is not active in the organization."

El Nacional quoted Mrs. Niehous as saying the Venezuelan government should intensify the search for her husband, from whom she received eight messages between March and July last year. The newspaper said she will travel to Venezuela shortly and ask President Carlos Andres Perez to order a more intensive search.

She also appealed to the kidnapers to release her husband as soon as possible. Mrs. Niehous came to Caracas last August and offered nearly $500,000 for information regarding his whereabouts.

The Venezuelan government forbade negotiations with the kidnapers, banned publication of kidnaper documents and ordered the purchase of Owens-Illinois' local operations — worth an estimated $24 million — after the firm arranged publication of the manifesto three foreign papers.

The kidnapers' demands included publication in the local and foreign press of a strongly worded political manifesto and payment of an estimated $3.5 million in ransom.

They plan to leave Jan. 19 for three days in Washington, D.C.

Container Corp Contributes To Ohio Foundation

Container Corporation of America has contributed to the Ohio Foundation of Independent Colleges in December. Contributions to the Ohio Foundation for the first seven months of the 1976-77 fiscal year totals $764,354 from 1060 donors. The number of contributions as well as the total dollar amount shows an increase over the same period a year ago.

"This is a most encouraging report," said Dr. Carl C. Bracy, president of OFIC, "and confirms our belief that a strong corporate support will be continued if our colleges offer individualized quality education to the 44,525 students." The 34 independent Ohio colleges which are members of OFIC will be the recipients of these contributed dollars at the close of the fiscal year.

New Years dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Davis and daughter, Susie were Mrs. Marie Goodman, Mrs. Marilyn Cullum and Mrs. Ethel Ankrom of Circleville, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ankrom and daughter, Becky, Mike Davis and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Houser and son, Todd of Kingston. Additional afternoon callers were Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Riggins and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Moore and daughter, Beth of Circleville.

Callers at the home of Mrs. Charlotte Phillips last Wednesday were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kempton of Williamsport and their son, Mr. Larry Kempton from Laramie, Wyoming.

George L. Borders is a patient in the Medical Center. He fell Dec. 20 and suffered a broken hip. According to Mr. and Mrs. Jende who care for him, he is doing about as well as a 92-year-old can, especially as this is the second time around. He first had a broken hip in 1971.

Miss Sharon Goldsberry and Miss Becky Ankrom left early Sunday afternoon to return to Morehead State University at Morehead, Ky. where both are students. They had a three week holiday break with their respective parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Goldsberry and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Ankrom.

Other travellers were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Immell and daughter, Beth Ann who left early Monday morning to return to their home in Morrow, Ga., after spending the weekend with Miss Alice Canter and Miss Julia Canter.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett McCormack of Amanda were Wednesday evening callers of Mrs. Lucille Moore.

The regular meeting of Kingston Chapter 411, Order of Eastern Star, last Wednesday night featured Obligation Night and Back to School Night. The Worthy Matron, Mrs. Normagene Mahoney was in charge of the meeting. The Worthy patron is Frank Graves.

Mrs. Opal Hall was discharged from the Medical Center last week where she had been convalescing following an auto accident four weeks ago.

After a business trip to Nashville, Tenn. last week, Mr. and Mrs. William Meadows visited Mr. and Mrs. Homer Miller in Naples, Fla. The two couples were joined by Mr. and Ms. Bill

Baldwin to attend the Orange Bowl to see Ohio State play the University of Colorado. In Nashville, Mr. and Mrs. Meadows were overnight guests of his niece and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Hazen Noland.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stonerock enjoyed the annual family New Years get together at the home of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roger McConnell and family in Circleville. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jim McConnell and family, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Stonerock and family, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Stonerock and children, all of Circleville, Mrs. Sally Koverman and family of Dayton, and Miss Ann McConnell of Lancaster. Msgr. McGlynn dropped in. The family all enjoyed a visit by phone with Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Stonerock who live in Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth DeLong returned home Thursday after spending the holidays with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. James DeLong and children in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Mullins and children of Ft. Campbell, Ky., recently spent 12 days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Humphrey. Man, 91, Loves Life Of Isolation

NAMAKAN LAKE, Minn. (AP) — Ingvald Stevens is one of those rarest of creatures, a man utterly at peace with himself and his world.

PCB Fight In River Expected

CINCINNATI (AP) — An eight state attack on rising levels of the toxic chemical PCB in the Ohio River was expected to be approved today.

"The thrust will be to recommend information be collected on which the state agencies can make their decisions," said Oral Hert, chairman of the engineering committee of the Ohio River Valley Sanitation Commission (ORSANCO).

"The offers of assistance has been really great," Leo Weaver, executive director.

ORSANCO is a cooperative agency established in 1948 by eight states to monitor and eliminate pollution of the river and its tributaries.

ORSANCO represents Illinois, Indiana, Kentucky, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Virginia and West Virginia.

Hert said the individual states have agreed to participate in further fish samplings. They will also furnish information already gathered on the sources of the chemical. Hert said sediment dredging will be undertaken to discover pockets of PCBs in the river. This, plus information from federal agencies regarding health aspects, will be prepared in time for a further meeting in May.

PCB is used in the manufacture of electrical equipment, including industrial capacitors.

William Klein, of the ORSANCO staff, reported that the September study at 11 dams along the river not only indicated that catfish were developing tumors but the fish were also declining in numbers and weight since 1968, despite the fact that the water is cleaner.

Psittacosis, or parrot fever, is an infectious disease transmitted to man by various types of birds. Although it is thought to be transmitted chiefly by parrots, it can also be spread by parakeets, pigeons and turkeys.

He has found it living alone on his own island in one of the most remote and untamed reaches of America. It has been his home the past 45 years, almost half his life. He is 91.

He lives in a cabin heated by poplar and birch felled and sawed by his own muscle. He grows his own vegetables and stores them in a root cellar he himself dug. He grinds his own wheat and bakes his own bread. He hauls his water from the crystal lake that surrounds him, in the winter chopping through thick ice.

At night, by gaslight, he writes in his diary:

"The weatherman is doing his level best to freeze me to death. Well, tomorrow at this time I shall know if he can outmaneuver this old Viking or not."

So far neither savage winter, which lays siege to this wilderness on the Canadian border with temperatures that plunge to 45 below, nor summer isolation, which requires him to travel eight miles in his boat to the nearest mail drop, has defeated that independent old Viking.

Visited recently, his voice was coarse and raspy. He hadn't used it in several months, he explained. "I talk to myself, but not out loud." After a few phrases it was back in shape, lubricated and ready to discuss his solitary existence and why he chose it.

"It shouldn't be hard to understand. I love solitude. I love the wilderness. I love the wildlife. The partridges are my pets; I have to be careful not to step on them.

"I do not like crowds. I do not like the city, where even the snow is dirty. What is there to miss? I like my own company. I don't want to live if I can't take care of myself. I have no fear of death."

A man whose life personifies simplicity, Ingvald Stevens insists that his name be reduced to a single syllable: Steve. Most of his friends in International Falls — the nearest town, 50 miles away, where he journeys two or three times a year for supplies — know him only by that informal name.

Steve came to America from Norway in 1904 when he was 19 and searched out friends and relatives in Minnesota, the destination of many Scandinavian immigrants.

He went to school, farmed, clerked in a general store, finally wound up as manager of a shoe store in Hibbing. After 14 years of that, like many another managerial sort, he got ulcers.

That's when he moved to his island, a spot he had discovered on fishing vacations. It had been headquarters for a logging company. Steve converted it into a fishing camp and catered, half-heartedly, to summer tourists. What he really wanted to do was live alone all year long.

So he did. Now his Social Security check and his savings buy the staples he needs and he counts himself rich. He says he is never bored, has plenty to keep him busy.

He did not quit the real world when he moved to his island, Steve said. He discovered it.

So far neither savage winter, which lays siege to this wilderness on the Canadian border with temperatures that plunge to 45 below, nor summer isolation, which requires him to travel eight miles in his boat to the nearest mail drop, has defeated that independent old Viking.

Visited recently, his voice was coarse and raspy. He hadn't used it in several months, he explained. "I talk to myself, but not out loud." After a few phrases it was back in shape, lubricated and ready to discuss his solitary existence and why he chose it.

"It shouldn't be hard to understand. I love solitude, I love the wilderness, I love the wildlife. The partridges are my pets; I have to be careful not to step on them.

"I do not like crowds. I do not like the city, where even the snow is dirty. What is there to miss? I like my own company. I don't want to live if I can't take care of myself. I have no fear of death."

A man whose life personifies simplicity, Ingvald Stevens insists that his name be reduced to a single syllable: Steve. Most of his friends in International Falls — the nearest town, 50 miles away, where he journeys two or three times a year for supplies — know him only by that informal name.

Steve came to America from Norway in 1904 when he was 19 and searched out friends and relatives in Minnesota, the destination of many Scandinavian immigrants.

He went to school, farmed, clerked in a general store, finally wound up as manager of a shoe store in Hibbing. After 14 years of that, like many another managerial sort, he got ulcers.

That's when he moved to his island, a spot he had discovered on fishing vacations. It had been headquarters for a logging company. Steve converted it into a fishing camp and catered, half-heartedly, to summer tourists. What he really wanted to do was live alone all year long.

So he did. Now his Social Security check and his savings buy the staples he needs and he counts himself rich. He says he is never bored, has plenty to keep him busy.

He did not quit the real world when he moved to his island, Steve said. He discovered it.

NAACP Fights Choice Of Bell

WASHINGTON (AP) — If blacks had known that Jimmy Carter's election would place Atlanta lawyer Griffin Bell at the head of the Justice Department, they would not have backed the President-elect's campaign, according to an NAACP spokesman.

Bell ended two days of testimony before the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday after announcing that the new Carter administration will replace FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley.

Then Clarence Mitchell, speaking for the NAACP, urged the committee to delay action on Carter's nomination of Bell until a full hearing can be held after next week's inauguration.

Mitchell argued that Bell was a chief architect of former Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver's efforts to resist courtordered school desegregation in the 1950s and he accused Democrats on the committee of asking "gentle" questions of Bell in an effort to make him look good.

If Bell had been nominated by a Republican president, Mitchell said, the Democrats "would have given him the kind of going over that would have convinced the country he should not be confirmed."

A civil rights lobbyist for more than 25 years, Mitchell was the first opposition witness after Bell ended some 11 hours of testimony.

Bell admitted that as a legal adviser to Vandiver, who was elected in 1958, he had helped to fashion some school segregation bills. But he said his primary objective was to keep Georgia schools open.

Mitchell countered by saying: "He left out the most important words — to keep them open on a segregated basis."

Nearing the end of his two days of testimony, Bell disclosed that FBI Director Kelley will be replaced. He did not say when Kelley would be ousted, but said, "I think it would not be long."

He said he has not selected a successor and promised to consult with Senate and House judiciary committees before doing so.

"It's too serious a thing for one person to do," he said.

Mitchell and the NAACP's general counsel, Nathaniel Jones, were sharply critical of Bell's civil rights record, both as a judge and as a legal adviser to Vandiver.

Bell was appointed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court by the late President John F. Kennedy in 1961 after managing Kennedy's presidential campaign in Georgia. He resigned from the court last March.

Mitchell said if blacks had known before the election that Carter would pick Bell as attorney general they would not have voted for him and Carter would not have been elected.

Jones said Bell, as a judge, had "a mixed record" in school cases, but the bottom line was that his opinions sought to preserve segregated schools to the greatest extent possible.

Pole Barn Destroyed By Fire

Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies are meeting with State Fire Marshall Bob Greenawalt in an attempt to determine if a fire which destroyed a pole barn Wednesday night was deliberately set.

The barn, owned by Harford Renick, 6993 Darby Road, was destroyed by fire almost before the blaze was noticed, according to Deputy Jim Dixon.

The 40 by 65 foot barn and equipment it contained were valued at $10,000 by Renick. Five sows and an undetermined number of young pigs perished in the blaze.

Workmen had finished constructing the barn last week, according to farm worker Jerry Clifton, Route 3. The previous structure had apparently been destroyed by fire within the last 12 months.

Deputy Dixon discovered a five gallon can and two five gallon buckets outside the barn. The equipment was apparently inside the barn when Clifton finished work Wednesday.

County Receives Intangible Taxes

State Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson's office reported today a supplemental distribution of $106,721.26 in 1976 taxes on financial institutions and securities dealers was made to 32 counties. Pickaway County will receive $2,186.14.

With this disbursement, a total of $97,599,707.30 in 1976 intangible taxes was distributed to the counties, showing an increase of $8,707,743.37 over 1975 intangible taxes.

The counties distribute this money, on a priority basis, to political subdivisions within them, with the townships receiving no less than 10 per cent of the total county distribution, Ferguson said.

The intangible tax amounts to three mills per dollar on the value of shares of, the amount of capital employed by and the interest earned on capital employed by financial institutions. The tax is six mills per dollar on the value of shares of the amount of capital employed by securities dealers.

Two mills of the financial institutions tax and five mills of the securities dealers tax are returned to the counties on the basis of number, capital and investments of financial institutions and securities dealers located in a particular county. The remainder of the tax goes into the state's general fund.

Miami Beats Western Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "It was a key win for us...but we can't rest now," Miami basketball Coach Darrell Hedric observed.

His Redskins, the preseason favorites in the Mid-American Conference, had just knocked defending champion Western Michigan out of first place with a 71-62 road victory.

But Hedric noted that Miami now must turn around and host Central Michigan, another unbeaten team, on Saturday and "we must win at home" to be a title contender.

The triumph Wednesday night gave Miami a 3-0 record at the top of the MAC standings, along with Central Michigan and Bowling Green, both 2-0. Western Michigan dropped into fourth place at 3-1.

Western Coach Dick Shiltz blamed the loss on careless ball handling and poor shooting, without slighting the Redskins.

"Our turnovers led directly to layups for Miami," he said. "We're only shooting 43 per cent for the season and we're going to have to shoot better."

"Miami is sound fundamentally," Shiltz added. "They are a good defensive team and have the best zone we've faced all year."

All five Miami starters scored in double figures, led by Archie Aldridge with 16 points. Randy Ayers and Bernard Newman added 15 apiece and John Shoemaker and Chuck Goodyear, 10 each.

Rod Curry of Western took game scoring honors with 20 points while teammate Tom Cutter tallied 16 to put him over the 1,000-point career plateau.

In the only other MAC game of the night, Ball State recorded its first league victory in three outings by edging Kent State 64-62.

Cardinals Coach Jim Holstein said afterward that Jack Hahn, who led Ball State with 15 points, helped the team survive a second-half Kent rally.

"The zone they were in was a guard-shooting zone and (Jim) Fields was shooting after he missed his first couple of shots," Holstein said. "Hahn had to pick up the slack and he did."

Kent State Coach Rex Hughes said the Cardinals "poised toward the end of the game" made the difference.

Ohio University, playing outside the league, fell to Marshall 79-71. Charley Novak led the Thundering Herd with 18 points.

In other major Ohio college basketball action, third-ranked Cincinnati routed Dayton 84-61, while Xavier was a 74-69 victim of Loyola of Chicago and Cleveland State dropped an 89-75 verdict to Pittsburgh.

The Bearcats, playing before more than 17,000 people, the biggest basketball crowd in Ohio history, were led by Robert Miller in notching their 11th consecutive victory.

Xavier cut a 14-point deficit to four points but couldn't get any closer and suffered its seventh loss in 13 games. Garry Whitfield paced the Musketeers with 20 points.

Cleveland State trailed by only two points at intermission but couldn't keep up with the Panthers in the second half and dropped to a 3-7 record.

Wittenberg and Mount Union remained unbeaten in Ohio Conference play with triumphs Wednesday night. The Tigers, now 2-0, downed Ohio Wesleyan 60-56, while Mount Union beat Oberlin 65-59 for its third league victory in as many outings. In another OAC contest, Ohio Northern whipped Baldwin-Wallace behind Doug Mock's 27-point performance.

Hoosier-Buckeye Conference action saw Wilmington edging Hanover 69-68 on Tim Wilson's 10-foot jumper with 12 seconds left to play and Findlay dropping Taylor 104-91 as Dale Creager poured in 29 points.

In the Mid-Ohio Conference, Ohio Dominican trimmed Urbana 69-66 and Rio Grande defeated Walsh 86-75.

Elsewhere, it was Northern Kentucky State 81, Wright State 62; Youngstown State 84, Steubenville 71; Case Western 62, Thiel 59, and Akron 78, Wooster 70.

Ada High School Small But Tough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don't tell Ada High School's basketball partisans that you need size to be a winner.

The Hardin County power has four regulars 5-foot-10 or shorter, yet has posted nine straight victories this winter for the No. 1 statewide rating in Class A.

Ada, more noted for its football prowess, is unbeaten under Coach Gene Fries because of full-court pressure defense and 50 per cent shooting.

Around Ohio: Al Bailey has gone the full circle. The onetime high school coach jumped to Duquesne University and the Virginia Squires, a defunct pro team, as an assistant coach before taking over at Salem this season. He's off to a 5-5 start.

Canton McKinley's all-state wide receiver Ray Ellis heals in a hurry. The 6-foot-2 senior was back playing basketball 22 days after a hernia operation. He had 21 points in two weekend games.

Don Everett has lost only two games in two seasons, one at McKinley last winter and one at Canton Timken this season. Ken Newlon is the new McKinley mentor after 20 years at Canton Lincoln. Canton Lehman and Lincoln now are junior high schools.

Streaks maintained: Wheelersburg 40 regular season victories, Barborton 35 overall triumphs, West Lafayette Ridgewood 19 regular season victories. Streaks broken: Cincinnati Aiken 45 losses, Chillicothe Unioto 22 losses. Best starts ever: Ridgewood 9-0, Fairborn Baker 8-0.

Big performances: Herb Williams, 6-11 Columbus Marion Franklin center, 34 points, 21 rebounds, 6 blocked shots against Columbus Mohawk; Jim Rhoden, Lebanon, 29 points, 28 rebounds, 11 blocked shots vs. Oxford Talawanda.

Starry point averages: Tony Williams, Painesville Harvey's 5-11 guard, jumps center and averages 28.6 points. Dave Olinger, Ridgewood, 29.2, Al Moyer, Minerva, 29.67 points and Joe Faen, Cory Rawson, 29 per game.

The week's big comedown: Logan, averaging 91.1 points and over 100 in two straight games, scored just 47 points in a loss to Ironton.

Scarpitti And Jones Top OAC Players

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mount Union junior Dave Scarpitti and Otterbein senior Stephen Jones have been named Ohio Athletic Conference players of the week after leading their respective teams to the top of the Northern and Southern Division standings.

Scarpitti scored 27 points, including 11 of 18 from the field, as Mount Union toppled defending Northern Division champion Ohio Northern, 85-81. The 5-foot-9 guard also hit 19 points in a 71-67 triumph over Heidelberg.

Jones, a 6-foot-4 forward, had 12 points and 10 rebounds in Otterbein's 79-65 victory over Capital, and came up with 21 points and 12 rebounds in a 72-70 victory over Marietta in Southern Division action.

Vols Upset Kentucky, 71-67

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Ray Mears has coached 387 college basketball victories, but the latest one was something special.

"In the 14 years I've been at Tennessee, this has to be one of the biggest victories," said Mears after his Vols invaded 23,300-seat Rupp Arena at Lexington, Ky., Wednesday night and posted a 71-67 overtime upset of No. 2-ranked Kentucky.

The loss is likely to cost Kentucky its high ranking, as thirddrated Cincinnati — which trailed the Wildcats by just nine points in this week's Associated Press poll — raised its record to 11-0, routing Dayton 84-61 before the largest college basketball crowd in Ohio history, 17,009, at Cincinnati.

"Anyone who places the University of Kentucky in front of us is not knowledgeable about basketball," said Cincinnati Coach Gale Catlett. "And I said that before Kentucky lost tonight."

But Catlett was looking beyond Kentucky.

"I'd like to play San Francisco on a neutral court right now," Catlett said of the top-ranked Vols, who are 17-0. "We beat them last year (89-88 at Cincinnati) with three of our guards sick with the flu."

Only one other Top Twenty team was in action — No. 17 Clemson, which edged Duke 80-73 in overtime in an Atlantic Coast Conference clash.

"This may be the worst game we've played this season," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, whose team dropped to 2-1 in the Southeastern Conference and 9-2 over-all. "We shot 26 per cent in the first half, and when you can't buy a basket that magnifies your other mistakes."

Tennessee led 32-28 at intermission, fell behind by seven points with 7:39 to play and climbed back ahead only to have Kentucky reserve Truman Claytor sink a 12-foot jumper with nine seconds to go, tying the score 61-61 and sending the game into overtime.

A layup by Bernard King sent Tennessee ahead to stay 67-65 with 2:28 left in the extra period, then Mike Jackson clinched the victory with two free throws with 39 seconds left.

Ernie Grunfeld led Tennessee with 22 points, while Reggie Johnson added 18 and King 16. King also had 19 rebounds. Jack Givens of Kentucky took game scoring honors with 23 points.

The victory raised Tennessee's record to 10-2 over-all and lifted the Vols into a tie with Alabama for the SEC lead at 4-0.

Robert Miller scored 18 points and grabbed 22 rebounds for Cincinnati, which ran off 13 straight points in building a 48-27 halftime lead over Dayton, 10-2, and never was in trouble.

It was Cincinnati's 53rd straight home court victory, a streak that dates back to 1972. In six seasons under Catlett, the Bearcats are 60-1 at home. Stan Rome scored seven of his 14 points in overtime as Clemson 11-2, defeated Duke.

Clemson pulled into a 71-71 tie with 3:34 to go in regulation on a basket by Colin Abraham. Duke then held the ball for the last shot, but a try by Tate Armstrong bounded off the rim.

Rome then took command in overtime.

Dorothy Hamill Now 'Too Busy'

NEW YORK (AP) — Hey, what are they doing to our Dorothy? What is happening to the little figure-skating miss who was everybody's sweetheart in the Olympic Games?

They've turned her into a piece of delicate china. Don't touch. Don't speak to her. She might break. She is a golden ice princess in a gilded cage.

She is no longer the outgoing, effervescent, easily accessible personality who stole the hearts at Innsbruck. They're trying to give her the Hollywood image. She has even become the subject of gossip columnists — the sweet young thing now smoking two packs of cigarettes a day and swinging with Dino Martin Jr., and the movie jet set.

That's okay. Little girls have to grow up. But why try to turn our Dorothy into a Greta "I Want To Be Alone" Garbo?

Dorothy made her Madison Square Garden debut in the Ice Capades Tuesday night with what critics called an exhibition of "power and precision," but when newspaper friends sought to learn first hand how a professional career has changed her life the scene shifted to the ridiculous.

The first call was made to Solters

and Roskin, a Manhattan public relations firm handling accounts for both the Ice Capades and Miss Hamill. "I am sure an interview can be arranged," a representative said. "I will call back."

Approximately an hour later, the call came.

"Very sorry. Miss Hamill's time is completely booked. She will not be available — no, not even for 15 minutes."

A call was placed to Madison Square Garden, which is very hep on public relations matters.

"No luck," the Garden spokesman said. "We have been trying for days to set up some sit-down interviews for Hamill. The papers and networks have been pressing. We run into a stone wall. They tell us Dorothy is too busy, can't be bothered."

Dorothy's manager is Jerry Weintraub of Los Angeles, who also handles Frank Sinatra, Elvis Presley and John Denver.

Ma Bell got hold of Weintraub's office right away. Weintraub wasn't in, an aide said, but maybe you could leave your number.

"Don't call us," he added stiffly, right out of the movies, "Mr. Weintraub will call you." He didn't.

In New York, Ed Mosler, patron of sports and benefactor of Olympic figure skaters, said he hadn't seen Dorothy since Innsbruck.

Her family — mother, dad, older brother and sister — has had little better success.

"We saw Dorothy for about 45 minutes after one of her shows," her father, Chalmers Hamill, a business executive from Greenwich, Conn., said.

The phone rings. A call from Los Angeles. A remorseful public relations representative said perhaps an interview with Miss Hamill could be fitted in after all.

"How about Friday?" he was asked. "Friday's fine," he replied. "Late April, maybe?"

Tigers Face Strong Bexley '5' Saturday

Circleville will have its work cut out Saturday night when the Tigers travel to Bexley to meet the experienced, offensive minded Lions in a non league encounter.

Coming back from the strong 1975-76 Bexley squad are three of their top scorers. Both Larry Wilson and Todd Millard averaged 21 points a game last season and Lance Lerch also scored in double figures.

They are a team that likes to utilize the fast break and have fine speed and shooting ability. Members of a powerful reserve squad also moved up to give the varsity added strength this season.

Their main defenses will be a 2-3 zone and they will also use a tight man to man at times. They will also use a 2-2-1 three-quarter court press as well as a 1-2-2 full court press.

Starting for Bexley will be: Lance Lerch, 5-foot-11; Larry Wilson, 6-foot-3; Todd Millard, 5-foot-10; Mitchell, 6-foot-3; and either Meehan, 5-foot-10, or Sokol, 5-foot-10.

"At this stage in our development it will take an upset for us to defeat them on their own court," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. "Bexley uses a similar style to Washington C.H. with a fast break, pressing defense and wide open basketball.

"We have been working extremely hard this week to prepare a disciplined yet aggressive offense and defense. Our young men have been hustling in practice this week in order to improve our play," Bailey stated.

Circleville's big man, Brent Wright, has been hampered by the flu and a strained calf muscle but is in good shape once again.

Starting for the Tigers will be Frank Merrill and Tom Taylor at the guards, Wright at center with Toren Bensonhaver and Eric Pontious at the forward posts.

Additional bench strength will come from Tim Milstead, Rusty Holbrook, Mark Albright, Roy Huffer, Mike Brudzinski, Dave Holbrook, Mark Beck, Mike Edgington, Dave Cherrington and Mike Cox.

Coach Bailey has announced that all parents, boosters and fans are welcome in the Circleville locker room after all Tiger victories. There will be a very short team meeting and then the doors will be opened to the public.

"This may be the worst game we've played this season," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall, whose team dropped to 2-1 in the Southeastern Conference and 9-2 over-all. "We shot 26 per cent in the first half, and when you can't buy a basket that magnifies your other mistakes."

Tennessee led 32-28 at intermission, fell behind by seven points with 7:39 to play and climbed back ahead only to have Kentucky reserve Truman Claytor sink a 12-foot jumper with nine seconds to go, tying the score 61-61 and sending the game into overtime.

A layup by Bernard King sent Tennessee ahead to stay 67-65 with 2:28 left in the extra period, then Mike Jackson clinched the victory with two free throws with 39 seconds left.

Ernie Grunfeld led Tennessee with 22 points, while Reggie Johnson added 18 and King 16. King also had 19 rebounds. Jack Givens of Kentucky took game scoring honors with 23 points.

The victory raised Tennessee's record to 10-2 over-all and lifted the Vols into a tie with Alabama for the SEC lead at 4-0.

Robert Miller scored 18 points and grabbed 22 rebounds for Cincinnati, which ran off 13 straight points in building a 48-27 halftime lead over Dayton, 10-2, and never was in trouble.

It was Cincinnati's 53rd straight home court victory, a streak that dates back to 1972. In six seasons under Catlett, the Bearcats are 60-1 at home. Stan Rome scored seven of his 14 points in overtime as Clemson 11-2, defeated Duke.

Clemson pulled into a 71-71 tie with 3:34 to go in regulation on a basket by Colin Abraham. Duke then held the ball for the last shot, but a try by Tate Armstrong bounded off the rim.

Rome then took command in overtime.

Dorothy Hamill Now 'Too Busy'

NEW YORK (AP) — Hey, what are they doing to our Dorothy? What is happening to the little figure-skating miss who was everybody's sweetheart in the Olympic Games?

They've turned her into a piece of delicate china. Don't touch. Don't speak to her. She might break. She is a golden ice princess in a gilded cage.

She is no longer the outgoing, effervescent, easily accessible personality who stole the hearts at Innsbruck. They're trying to give her the Hollywood image. She has even become the subject of gossip columnists — the sweet young thing now smoking two packs of cigarettes a day, and swinging with Dino Martin Jr., and the movie jet set.

That's okay. Little girls have to grow up. But why try to turn our Dorothy into a Greta "I Want To Be Alone" Garbo?

Dorothy made her Madison Square Garden debut in the Ice Capades Tuesday night with what critics called an exhibition of "power and precision," but when newspaper friends sought to learn first hand how a professional career has changed her life the scene shifted to the ridiculous.

The first call was made to Solters

and Roskin, a Manhattan public relations firm handling accounts for both the Ice Capades and Miss Hamill.

"I am sure an interview can be arranged," a representative said. "I will call back."

Approximately an hour later, the call came.

"Very sorry. Miss Hamill's time is completely booked. She will not be available — no, not even for 15 minutes."

A call was placed to Madison Square Garden, which is very hep on public relations matters.

"No luck," the Garden spokesman said. "We have been trying for days to set up some sit-down interviews for Hamill. The papers and networks have been pressing. We run into a stone wall. They tell us Dorothy is too busy, can't be bothered."

Dorothy's manager is Jerry Weintraub of Los Angeles, who also handles Frank Sinatra, Elvis Presley and John Denver.

Ma Bell got hold of Weintraub's office right away. Weintraub wasn't in, an aide said, but maybe you could leave your number.

"Don't call us," he added stiffly, right out of the movies, "Mr. Weintraub will call you." He didn't.

In New York, Ed Mosler, patron of sports and benefactor of Olympic figure skaters, said he hadn't seen Dorothy since Innsbruck.

Her family — mother, dad, older brother and sister — has had little better success.

"We saw Dorothy for about 45 minutes after one of her shows," her father, Chalmers Hamill, a business executive from Greenwich, Conn., said.

The phone rings. A call from Los Angeles. A remorseful public relations representative said perhaps an interview with Miss Hamill could be fitted in after all.

"How about Friday?" he was asked. "Friday's fine," he replied. "Late April, maybe?"

Owls Top Generals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Westbrook, playing his first game in an Owls uniform, combined with Al Hillier to boost Columbus into first place in a 4-2 International Hockey League victory over the Flint Generals Wednesday night.

The victory put Columbus in undisputed possession of first place in the IHL southern division with an 18-17 record.

Tigers Face Strong Bexley '5' Saturday

Circleville will have its work cut out Saturday night when the Tigers travel to Bexley to meet the experienced, offensive minded Lions in a non league encounter.

Coming back from the strong 1975-76 Bexley squad are three of their top scorers. Both Larry Wilson and Todd Millard averaged 21 points a game last season and Lance Lerch also scored in double figures.

They are a team that likes to utilize the fast break and have fine speed and shooting ability. Members of a powerful reserve squad also moved up to give the varsity added strength this season.

Their main defenses will be a 2-3 zone and they will also use a tight man to man at times. They will also use a 2-2-1 three-quarter court press as well as a 1-2-2 full court press.

Starting for Bexley will be: Lance Lerch, 5-foot-11; Larry Wilson, 6-foot-3; Todd Millard, 5-foot-10; Mitchell, 6-foot-3; and either Meehan, 5-foot-10, or Sokol, 5-foot-10.

"At this stage in our development it will take an upset for us to defeat them on their own court," Circleville coach Jim Bailey commented. "Bexley uses a similar style to Washington C.H. with a fast break, pressing defense and wide open basketball.

"We have been working extremely hard this week to prepare a disciplined yet aggressive offense and defense. Our young men have been hustling in practice this week in order to improve our play," Bailey stated.

Circleville's big man, Brent Wright, has been hampered by the flu and a strained calf muscle but is in good shape once again.

Starting for the Tigers will be Frank Merrill and Tom Taylor at the guards, Wright at center with Toren Bensonhaver and Eric Pontious at the forward posts.

Additional bench strength will come from Tim Milstead, Rusty Holbrook, Mark Albright, Roy Huffer, Mike Brudzinski, Dave Holbrook, Mark Beck, Mike Edgington, Dave Cherrington and Mike Cox.

Coach Bailey has announced that all parents, boosters and fans are welcome in the Circleville locker room after all Tiger victories. There will be a very short team meeting and then the doors will be opened to the public.

Ada High School Small But Tough

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Don't tell Ada High School's basketball patrons that you need size to be a winner.

The Hardin County power has four regulars 5-foot-10 or shorter, yet has posted nine straight victories this winter for the No. 1 statewide rating in Class A.

Ada, more noted for its football prowess, is unbeaten under Coach Gene Fries because of full-court pressure defense and 50 per cent shooting.

Around Ohio: Al Bailey has gone the full circle. The onetime high school coach jumped to Duquesne University and the Virginia Squires, a defunct pro team, as an assistant coach before taking over at Salem this season. He's off to a 5-5 start.

Canton McKinley's all-state wide receiver Ray Ellis heals in a hurry. The 6-foot-2 senior was back playing basketball 22 days after a hernia operation. He had 21 points in two weekend games.

Don Everett has lost only two games in two seasons, one at McKinley last winter and one at Canton Timken this season. Ken Newlon is the new McKinley mentor after 20 years at Canton Lincoln. Canton Lehman and Lincoln now are junior high schools.

Streaks maintained: Wheelersburg 40 regular season victories, Barborton 35 overall triumphs, West Lafayette Ridgewood 19 regular season victories.

Streaks broken: Cincinnati Aiken 45 losses, Chillicothe Unioto 22 losses.

Best starts ever: Ridgewood 9-0,

Fairborn Baker 8-0.

Big performances: Herb Williams, 6-11 Columbus MarionFranklin center, 34 points, 21 rebounds, 6 blocked shots against Columbus Mohawk; Jim Rhoden, Lebanon, 29 points, 28 rebounds, 11 blocked shots vs. Oxford Talawanda.

Starry point averages: Tony Williams, Painesville Harvey's 5-11 guard, jumps center and averages 28.6 points. Dave Olinger, Ridgewood, 29.2, Al Moyer, Minerva, 29.67 points and Joe Faen, Cory Rawson, 29 per game.

The week's big comedown: Logan, averaging 91.1 points and over 100 in two straight games, scored just 47 points in a loss to Ironton.

Scarpitti And Jones

Top OAC Players

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mount Union junior Dave Scarpitti and Otterbein senior Stephen Jones have been named Ohio Athletic Conference players of the week after leading their respective teams to the top of the Northern and Southern Division standings.

Scarpitti scored 27 points, including 11 of 18 from the field, as Mount Union toppled defending Northern Division champion Ohio Northern, 85-81. The 5-foot-9 guard also hit 19 points in a 71-67 triumph over Heidelberg.

Jones, a 6-foot-4 forward, had 12 points and 10 rebounds in Otterbein's 79-65 victory over Capital, and came up with 21 points and 12 rebounds in a 72-70 victory over Marietta in Southern Division action.

Power Demand Brings Cutoff

By TOM GILLEM
Associated Press Writer

Employees of Buckeye Steel Casting Co., idled Tuesday by electric power cutbacks, were called back to work today in hopes electricity to operate a melting furnace will soon be restored.

Mike Sparks, Buckeye's labor relations manager, said the company hopes by Friday Columbus & Southern Electric Co. will resume service interrupted Tuesday when the utility began running low on power.

Today's break in the bitter cold weather is expected to ease threats of voltage reductions and electricity cutoffs in other areas of the state.

Earlier this week, most Ohio electric power companies were pushed to capacity output, causing a voltage reduction in Dayton and pleas for voluntary conservation in Toledo, in addition to the Columbus cutoff.

But a survey showed officials of most power companies feel the crunch is over—for now.

Temperatures were expected to warm to 20 degrees today, and more snow is forecast for the state beginning this afternoon.

While most attention has focused on the state's natural gas shortage, the subzero weather of Monday and Tuesday provided electric companies with their share of problems.

In Columbus, Buckeye Steel is CS&E's only "interruptible" customer, which means it pays lower rates year-round and can be cut off during peak periods. The layoff affected almost a quarter of the firm's 1,100 workers.

R.E. Sisinger, C&SOE vice president, said cold weather caused peak demands this week and made the move necessary.

"Normally, you anticipate peak days and you have a reserve capability available for use and you rely on a neighbor company who may have power to sell," Sisinger said.

"But in a case like this, everybody is in the same boat. Nobody can guarantee they will have power to sell if you need it. The backup just is not there."

In Dayton, customers of Dayton Power & Light Co. continued to receive voltage reduced by 5 per cent Wednesday, and a company spokesman could give no estimate when the situation will end.

"It will be when we get our generation capacity back up to where it should be," said Don Speyer, director of communications and employee relations.

DP&L, operating only with management personnel since 2,200 of its employees went on strike Monday, initiated the voltage reduction because of heavy demands due to the cold weather, he said.

Most users cannot notice a 5 per cent reduction, he said.

Toledo Edison was forced to ask industrial and commercial customers to cut off any nonessential uses of electricity for a 12-hour period Tuesday, and Barker said response was excellent.

With the voluntary cutbacks, the system avoided cutting off interruptible customers and cutting voltage, he said.

Other utilities reported no curtailment needs.

Pacers Rip Celtics

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

It was a banner day for the Boston Celtics — then they went and spoiled it by playing a basketball game.

The good news came from Dave Cowens, the all-star center who had taken a leave of absence Nov. 8, saying he would not return to the team until next fall. Wednesday, Cowens announced he had a change of heart and would be back in uniform as soon as possible.

"It's great, just super," was the reaction of Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn, whose team has stumbled to a 15-15 record without Cowens and who knows that the big center can mean the difference in the fight for a playoff spot.

Then the Celtics showed up at Boston Garden for a game against the Indiana Pacers, and the rosy picture took on an ashen tone.

In the opening minute of play, high-scoring guard Charlie Scott tumbled to the floor under the basket, landing on his left arm. He was taken to University Hospital, and moments later the Celtics got the bad news — two broken bones in the forearm.

The rest of the game did not go much better for Boston. Billy Knight, Indiana's scoring star, poured in 33 points, including eight in a row during the second half that nailed down a 112-101 victory for the Pacers, their sixth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Houston Rockets 102-97, the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Buffalo Braves 124-118, the Chicago Bulls topped the Washington Bullets 99-85, the Milwaukee Bucks outscored the San Antonio Spurs 127-121, the Denver Nuggets downed the New Orleans Jazz 110-99 and the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Detroit Pistons 121-99.

Dave Cowens Rejoins Boston Celtics

BOSTON (AP) — "I'm ready to play basketball again."

With that simple statement, Dave Cowens, the Boston Celtics' All-Star center, ended a 63-day unpaid leave of absence Wednesday, agreeing to rejoin the National Basketball Association's defending champions.

"You're back on the payroll as of right now," Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach said.

Cowens, who walked out on his reported $280,000 job on Nov. 10, did a sudden turnaround, admitting that he had wanted to remain away for the remainder of the season.

When Pitt's Tony Dorsett was a 1973 freshman he set a college record of rushing for 1,586 yards.

Pat Zachry Signs Contract With Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pat Zachry, National League coRookie of the Year in 1976, has signed his 1977 contract with the Cincinnati Reds.

Zachry, who shared rookie honors with San Diego's Butch Metzger, had a 14-7 pitching record with a 2.74 earned run average, the best among Reds starters.

Zachry also won one game each in the National League Playoffs and the World Series.

The Reds have signed 21 players but five starters remained unsigned, Pete Rose, Ken Griffey, George Foster, Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan.

Sparky Anderson has managed the Cincinnati Reds since 1970.

Hawks Beat Islanders, 2-1

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

Bobby Orr's knees may not be as good as in the past, but there is nothing wrong with his shooting.

Orr, who is trying to continue playing after five knee operations, returned to action Wednesday night for the first time since Dec. 1 and scored an important goal on his first shot, as the Chicago Black Hawks edged the New York Islanders 2-1 in a National Hockey League game.

Orr, who has played in only 13 of Chicago's 43 games this season, fired a 50-foot shot over the right shoulder of Islanders' goalie Billy Smith at 6:33 of the first period. The goal, No. 4 for the season, boosted his all-time record for NHL defensesmen to 268.

"I feel just fine. Everything was okay. I was glad to get back on the ice and hopefully everything will work out," said Orr.

"We really won't know how Bobby's knee will be until he wakes up in the morning and walks around," said Chicago Coach Bill White.

In other NHL play, the Atlanta Flames routed the New York Rangers 6-1, the Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Los Angeles Kings 3-2, the Cleveland Barons defeated the Detroit Red Wings 3-1, the St. Louis Blues stunned the Montreal Canadiens 7-2 and the Vancouver Canucks outscored the Minnesota North Stars 5-3.

Bearcats Defeat UD

CINCINNATI (AP) — Next! The unbeaten and third-ranked Cincinnati Bearcats are ready to take on all comers.

"I'd like to play San Francisco on a neutral court right now. We beat them last year (89-88 in overtime at Cincinnati Gardens) with three of our guards sick with the flu," said Catlett Wednesday night after the Bearcats' 84-61 drubbing of Dayton, a perennially-tough college basketball power which had won 10 of its first 11 games.

The victory came before 17,009, an all-time crowd for a college basketball game in Ohio.

Ironically, top-ranked San Francisco and Cincinnati were to have a rematch this season of their nationally-televvised bout last February. The game was to be played at San Francisco. But UC declined for financial reasons when TV officials decided not to make it a national telecast, which would have netted Cincinnati $20,000.

Catlett, still unhappy that the Bearcats were dropped from No. 2 to third, behind Kentucky, in last week's AP poll, had some sharp words for the poll voters.

"Anyone who places the University of Kentucky in front of us is not knowledgeable about basketball. And I said that before Kentucky lost tonight," Catlett said. Kentucky, now 9-2, suffered a 71-67 loss to Tennessee Wednesday night.

"It's great, just super," was the reaction of Celtics Coach Tom Heinsohn, whose team has stumbled to a 15-15 record without Cowens and who knows that the big center can mean the difference in the fight for a playoff spot.
Then the Celtics showed up at Boston Garden for a game against the Indiana Pacers, and the rosy picture took on an ashen tone.
In the opening minute of play, high-scoring guard Charlie Scott tumbled to the floor under the basket, landing on his left arm. He was taken to University Hospital, and moments later the Celtics got the bad news — two broken bones in the forearm.
The rest of the game did not go much better for Boston. Billy Knight, Indiana's scoring star, poured in 33 points, including eight in a row during the second half that nailed down a 112-101 victory for the Pacers, their sixth consecutive National Basketball Association triumph.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Philadelphia 76ers beat the Houston Rockets 102-97, the Atlanta Hawks defeated the Buffalo Braves 124-118, the Chicago Bulls topped the Washington Bullets 99-85, the Milwaukee Bucks outscored the San Antonio Spurs 127-121, the Denver Nuggets downed the New Orleans Jazz 110-99 and the Seattle SuperSonics defeated the Detroit Pistons 121-99.

Dave Cowens Rejoins Boston Celtics
BOSTON (AP) — "I'm ready to play basketball again."
With that simple statement, Dave Cowens, the Boston Celtics' All-Star center, ended a 63-day unpaid leave of absence Wednesday, agreeing to rejoin the National Basketball Association's defending champions.
"You're back on the payroll as of right now," Celtics President and General Manager Red Auerbach said.
Cowens, who walked out on his reported $280,000 job on Nov. 10, did a sudden turnaround, admitting that he had wanted to remain away for the remainder of the season.

When Pitt's Tony Dorsett was a 1973 freshman he set a college record of rushing for 1,586 yards.

Pat Zachry Signs Contract With Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Pat Zachry, National League co-Rookie of the Year in 1976, has signed his 1977 contract with the Cincinnati Reds.
Zachry, who shared rookie honors with San Diego's Butch Metzger, had a 14-7 pitching record with a 2.74 earned run average, the best among Reds starters.
Zachry also won one game each in the National League Playoffs and the World Series.
The Reds have signed 21 players but five starters remained unsigned, Pete Rose, Ken Griffey, George Foster, Dave Concepcion and Joe Morgan.
Sparky Anderson has managed the Cincinnati Reds since 1970.

Hawks Beat Islanders, 2-1

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
Bobby Orr's knees may not be as good as in the past, but there is nothing wrong with his shooting.
Orr, who is trying to continue playing after five knee operations, returned to action Wednesday night for the first time since Dec. 1 and scored an important goal on his first shot, as the Chicago Black Hawks edged the New York Islanders 2-1 in a National Hockey League game.
Orr, who has played in only 13 of Chicago's 43 games this season, fired a 50-foot shot over the right shoulder of Islanders' goalie Billy Smith at 6:33 of the first period. The goal, No. 4 for the season, boosted his all-time record for NHL defensemen to 268.
"I feel just fine. Everything was okay. I was glad to get back on the ice and hopefully everything will work out," said Orr.
"We really won't know how Bobby's knee will be until he wakes up in the morning and walks around," said Chicago Coach Bill White.
In other NHL play, the Atlanta Flames routed the New York Rangers 6-1, the Toronto Maple Leafs edged the Los Angeles Kings 3-2, the Cleveland Barons defeated the Detroit Red Wings 3-1, the St. Louis Blues stunned the Montreal Canadiens 7-2 and the Vancouver Canucks outscored the Minnesota North Stars 5-3.

Williamsport News

By EILEEN EASTERDAY, Phone 986-3481

Who knows what sixth sense of mine was at work last Saturday that caused me to pick up twice the amount of milk I usually do but believe me I surely am glad it was working on all cylinders with all the weather we have had since then.

It may not have been an especially white Christmas but enough has been dumped on the ground at this point to satisfy me for several years. All those who like sled riding and ice skating should be in seventh heaven right about now. The first day or two that school was cancelled the news was met with joy here in our household but even that has lost its glamour and Amy sits bemoaning the "nothing to do" cry and wishing that school would resume.

I have never been much of a creature for habits or fixed routines and this has stood me in good stead more than once with last week being another example. What began as an ordinary week with nothing special in sight became completely turned around. On Wednesday evening six of us decided we were hungry for seafood so off to Cincinnati we went. The six were Mary Alive Greenwood, Amy Easterday, Shirley Thompson, Beth de Souza, Roelof de Sa and myself. That in itself was without incident even though Cincy had been blanketed with six inches of snow the night before that we were innocent of.

However, when we returned home we learned that Beth's father had been rushed to a hospital. The next day we further learned through the exchange program that her father had been operated on and the situation was very bad and that Beth would need to return home immediately. It became a rather hectic time but we made the plane with her on time even though Friday's driving conditions left much to be desired. Even managed to get in some shopping that Beth wanted so badly to do before returning to Brasil. A phone call from Recife on Saturday evening from Beth let us know she had arrived safely.

Beth's address is: Elisabeth Sa de Souza, R. Jose de Holanda 917 Torre, Recife Pernambuco 50.000 Brasil South America. A message can be sent her father to: Aluizio de Souza, Hospital Portugues, R. Neves Subrinho 14, Recife Pernambuco 50.000 Brasil, South America.

Our plan to check out resolution making for the new year had to be put aside after we learned of Beth's dilemma. Perhaps another time. Those we did talk with seemed to have losing weight uppermost on their list and a few were going to try to stop smoking, a couple people had listed trying to save money and another resolution was to attend church more regular. A number of folks considered resolution making a lost cause and they resolved not to make resolutions.

In the spirit of a new year and all the news items we read about best dressed and not so well dressed in the opinions of the top designers I thought it would be fun to have the slob of all years (meaning yours truly) choose a list of those who are consistently neat and well groomed in our own community. Now keep in mind that if someone does not make the list who you think should have perhaps it is because I have rare contact with them. Those I have chosen are ladies I see on a frequent basis and have never seen them unkempt whether it be at a social gathering, housekeeping, marketing or doing errands. In no particular order I nominate Bernice Hulse, Mary Gearheart, Twila West, Helen Whitesed, Glenna Steinhauser, Pat Metzger, Maxine Lanman, Mae Carter, Loretta Keller, Marvina Rihl, Ruth Snyder, Juanita Lawson, Edna West, Frances Fry, Karen Dean, Pat Clark, Grace Whitten, Clarabelle Valentine, Gertrude Schleich, Betty Howell and Gladys Arledge.

Ruth and Ernie Minor related an interesting New Year's tradition... this New Year's eve marked the 40th year that they have seen in the new year with friends Ray and Lucille Congrove who reside on Route 1, Chillicothe. Both couples were married in 1937 and since Ruth and Lucille had been good friends from the days of their 3rd grade at Adelphi and the fellows are also school day friends it was only natural to continue the friendship as married couples and thus the tradition of spending New Year's Eve together was begun.

Dr. Paul and Irma Fenstermaker happily welcome a new grandchild for the New Year. Born on Dec. 28 little 9-pound Melinda Rae joined the family of Bill and Nancy Fenstermaker Heskett at Newton, North Carolina. Also happy about her arrival are a little brother and a sister. Grandmother Irma flew down to be with the family for several days. The family's address is: Route 4 Box 501A Newton, North Carolina 28658.

J. F. and Vicki Picklesimer and sons Jason and Tony hosted the family holiday dinner this year and their guests were "Butch" and Mindy Bivens and their Brandy Jo, Floyd and Betty Cox, Kelly Picklesimer, Sylvia Wilkey all of our locale, J. J. and Rosie Brady and their Nikki from Circleville. Jason, Tony and Brandy Jo are the fifth generation with great-great grandmother Sylvia Wilkey being the top branch of the existing family tree.

Holiday visitors in Paintsville, Kentucky were former village residents Sheila (Mrs. Davis) Myers and children Brenda, Tammy and Terry. They accompanied Joyce Reeser and Tony to the home of Mrs. Katie Castle (Joyce's mother). The Myers family now live near Stoutsville. Of special interest to all of them was the strip mining operation.

Rhonda Dollison blew out six candles on her birthday cake when her parents Ted and Kay Dollison entertained in her honor recently at their home. Enjoying the cake and all the trimmings as well as the games and fun of a birthday party were Robbie Painter, Lisa Clark, Keith and Kendra Smith, Uncle Kenneth and Aunt Sondra Smith, Uncle Brett and Aunt Donna Jean Patrick who drove down from West Union and younger brother Brian Dollison.

Bill Brayshaw and son of Pennsylvania guested for a few days last week with Pete and Pearl Cochenour. They were enroute to Florida. Pearl is just beginning to recover from not being at all well and Pete is recuperating from recent surgery.

Charlotte West was guest of honor when Harold and Sue Faber entertained with a candlelit dinner marking Charlotte's birthday. Other guests were Wendell, Virgil, and Violet West (the honored guest's husband and children), Tyrsa, Wendy and Blayne Faber, children of the hosts. No one mentioned how many candles were on the cake.

Sue Faber is thrilled to have a rather different birthday present. Twins were born to her brother and sister-in-law Elton and Jeanie Steele of Tarawa, North Carolina. They have been named Dionna and Derrick and are welcomed by brothers Johnny and Andy. I failed to find out when Sue's birthday is but the twins arrived that date and it was recently.

It has been a busy Faber household what with New Year's Eve guests being Bill and Sandy Tolbert and children Sharon and Chad and other recent guests were Neil and Dot Coey and sons Tommy and Greg from Athens. The Tolberts are home on deputation from New Guinea. They once served the Williamsport Church in Christian Union.

Not being the best organized soul in the world when I miss writing a column it is difficult for me to determine what has been written before and what notes are yet to be written so if I repeat myself this time around you will understand why. Then again some things bear repeating as in the case of the Share of the Square Drive. The steering committee as comprised of Marcia Horch, Shirley Bowser, Jerry Wilt, Charles Galloway and Glenn Whitten have been making numerous contacts and having lots of meetings. At one recent meeting they made plans to enlist the help of other community individuals in the hopes that these persons will respond with further ideas on how to involve each person in the community.

The committee is greatly encouraged by contributions made to date and also the fact that after the land is purchased there is a distinct possibility that funding will be made available for renovation work. A cost of a share is $10. and can be purchased from a committee member or contributions can be made payable to Community Square and sent to Box 92, Williamsport, Ohio 43164.

Contributions to date have been received from: Hazel Galloway, Deercreek Auto Parts, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Galloway, C. K. McFarland and Sons, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Galloway, John Cook T.V. Gil Conley, Mr. and Mrs. George Hamman, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Ater, Nell Ater, Wilma Jean Chew, Mrs. Walter Lewis and Beverly Lewis, Martha Tipton Hicks, Esta Tipton, Mr. and Mrs. John Drummond, Dorsey Bumgarner, Mary Alice Luellen Harness, The Dairy Shed, Sorosis Club, Gertrude Schleich, Evelyn Kaiser, Robert Shaeffer, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schein, William Huffman, Mark Schein, Circle D. Recreation, Pat Clark, Angie List, Helen McDill, Russell McDill, Viola Myers, Child Study League, Amy Easterday, Deercreek Dam Days Festival and in memory of Margaret Anderson.

Be with you again next week, the Lord willing. Take care. Think About: Those who give have all things; they who withhold have nothing.

Ralston Purina Scholarships Aid Students

During the next school year, 69 outstanding upperclassmen in colleges of agriculture and agricultural engineering located throughout North America and in Puerto Rico will again be completing their undergraduate work with the assistance of the Ralston Purina Scholarship Program.

The $650 Ralston Purina Scholarship is awarded to one deserving incoming junior or senior at 65 state universities and land-grant colleges. It is also awarded in three Canadian Agricultural Colleges and in one college in Puerto Rico.

The student selected to receive the Scholarship is recommended by a scholarship committee consisting of faculty members of the college. The faculty committee chooses the recipient on the basis of his scholastic record, participation in campus affairs, and eligibility for financial assistance.

This will be the 23rd year of the Ralston Purina Scholarships. During the first twenty-two years, the program has helped 1,263 students finish their college undergraduate work.

Letters are now being sent by Ralston Purina Company to all eligible colleges offering the 1977-78 Scholarships, according to an announcement made by George H. Kyd, Division Vice President and Director of Public Relations.

Police Report Grand Theft

The Circleville Police Department investigated a report of grand larceny at 11:20 a.m. Wednesday.

According to the report, Allen Krohn, an employee of Canadian American Contractor Service, came to the police department to advise that he and another employee were working in a manhole in an alley south of W. Mound St., and when they came up to the street level they discovered that an electric generator was missing.

The 2300 volt Katolite generator was valued at approximately $500.

REGULAR DONOR — The Rev. George M. Myers, Bolender-Pontius Road, is an excellent example of the blood recipient who knows the value of having a supply of blood available when needed. Eight years ago, Myers was critically injured in an automobile accident, and during his recovery he received many units of blood. Before the accident and since, he has been a regular blood donor and has recently completed his second gallon donation at the Columbus Red Cross Blood Center. He is employed at the Ohio Rehabilitation Services in Columbus. The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be in Circleville Tuesday at Community United Methodist Church from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. To make an appointment please call 474-5736.

C&SOE To Delay Plan Construction

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. has decided to delay for two years the construction of two 375-megawatt units at its Poston Generating Station in Athens County.

The decision was the result of lower load levels than predicted and related problems of financing, according to James Fenstermaker, senior vice president of operations.

Construction of the first new unit will be delayed until 1983, Fenstermaker said, and plans for the second unit are being held up until 1985. In addition, all transmission and substation equipment associated with the units also will be delayed.

Financially, Fenstermaker said, this will mean the company's construction budget will be cut by $26 million in 1977, $74 million in 1978 and $56 million in 1979.

There were 24 times as many motor-vehicle deaths in 1975 as in 1910, according to the National Safety Council. In 1975 there were about 295 times as many vehicles on the roads.

Panel Seeks School Chief

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Nine members of the State Board of Education have been named to a committee to search for a successor to state school Supt. Martin W. Essex, who is retiring March 15.

Named to the committee by board President Everett L. Jung were Robert Williams of Xenia, chairperson; Walter A. Burks Jr. of Cleveland, Robert A. Lyons of Dayton, Roy D. McKinley of Coshocton, John R. Meckstroth of Cincinnati, David R. Rittenhouse of Toledo, Wayne E. Shaffer of Bryan, Robert W. Walker of Adena and Martha W. Wise of Elyria.

Jung said the committee is expected to meet next weekend.

The 68-year-old Essex announced last week his plans to end a decade as chief executive of Ohio schools, longer than any of his predecessors.

Middle School To Be Closed

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — The Northwood Middle School here will be shut down soon in a move to keep the system's natural gas usage with its allotment, officials said.

Northwood's 208 pupils will be transferred to nearby high schools, and Supt. David Cottrell said the arrangement is expected to pose few problems other than the moving of some equipment and the doubling up of a few classrooms.

The school system is in a natural gas squeeze because of curtailments imposed by Columbia Gas as a result of the unseasonably cold weather and supply problems.

Cottrell said the system already has used 43 per cent of its winter allotment with three months of the heating season remaining. He said the Northwood closing is expected to save about 2 million cubic feet of gas over the period.

Beaver Trapping Season Coming

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 1977 beaver trapping season will be open from Jan. 15 to Feb. 15 in 30 Ohio counties, the division of wildlife said Wednesday.

The season opens 15 days earlier than last year, the division said, as a result of the state's increased beaver population. There is a limit of three beaver per trapper during the one-month season, the division said.

HOUSE DESTROYED — The mobile home of Mr. and Mrs. David Campbell, lot D-14, Poplar Grove Trailer Court, Lockbourne, was destroyed by fire shortly before 5 p.m. Wednesday. The blaze apparently began in the insulation of the home, and was sparked by Campbell who was using a propane torch to thaw frozen water pipes, according to Pickaway County Deputy J. Phillip Brown. The Harrison Twp. Fire Department battled the blaze. Loss of $2,500 was estimated to personal property of the Campbells, while Don McKinnis, 2945 Pine Drive, owner of the trailer, listed $5,000 loss to the contents and $8,000 loss to the home.

Your Views On Tiger

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR FRIDAY

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): The most difficult chore may bring the most rewarding returns if handled well. Don't turn your back, therefore, on complex situations. They won't go away.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Controversy may prove annoying. Yet here is where your understanding, tolerant self can shine. Shy away from minor issues and trivia and you can handle pertinent points more easily.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): If there is no guide or directive, be careful not to act impulsively on new projects. Appraise values warily. Day will be a challenge to your ingenuity.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Trends mixed. Bring order out of uncertainty through clear, concise analysis and like action. Emphasize system and optimism.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Rarin' to go? This spirit, adequately controlled, can be the forerunner of substantial gain. Predicate action on current needs, quality, timeliness.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Concentrate on personal advancement within the framework of your abilities. Learn more about yourself, your latent talents. Be alert to constantly changing trends.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Circumvent trouble, even if you have to take the long way around. Some persons could be irritating now. Avoid them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 23): Don't make decisions under stress and don't write anything you may later regret. Maintain your equanimity even if certain situations annoy you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 24 to Dec. 23): Stellar influences indicate some new interests. Make sure you are ready for them — but without slighting current obligations. Don't let "moods" cause misunderstandings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 24 to Jan. 20): Mixed influences. Question and investigate where there is margin for error. Do not accept suggestions blindly. And do not expect more than is reasonable.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): A new light thrown upon a certain situation should prime you for fine advantages in the offing. Rouse yourself to work for attainment which will require more than usual vigor.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): You have considerable freedom of movement now. Best used, it can help to further either personal or creative objectives.

YOU BORN TODAY are a composite of bravery, determination, willingness to strive against tremendous odds and intuitive powers. You are suited to leadership in business or industry, to the law, to the entertainment field or any enterprise which involves dealing with the public. You are never satisfied with mediocre results; constantly seek more knowledge and are a perfectionist in all your undertakings. Avoid tendencies toward moodiness and excessive pride, however. Birthdate of: Albert Schweitzer, noted for medical and humanitarian work in Africa; Pierre Loti, French author; Cary Grant, film star.

Welfare Reform Revived Again

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A former Rhodes Administration official has called for federal takeover of a single basic program of income assistance as the only long-range answer to the need for welfare reform.

In a 23-page white paper entitled, "Welfare Reform, the Towering Inferno," former Welfare Director Denver L. White proposes consolidating all existing programs into a federally funded and operated benefit package, "based solely on economic need."

"Revamping the present system is not the answer, and soon stopgap measures will end in chaos—if they have not already done so," White said. White, who retired from the welfare post in 1975 after a 30-year involvement with public assistance, said he had come full circle from a viewpoint that originally favored local control of relief programs.

The shortage of jobs, "lure of the good life," cost of providing services and other societal factors have outdated that line of thinking, he conceded. White is currently a part-time consultant to the Department of Public Welfare.

The present tri-level system has failed, he said, "because while policies are essentially federalized, the implementation is left to states and counties who no longer have the flexibility to modify federal requirements."

White traces many present problems to laws passed by Congress in the 1960s and federal court decisions during the same era.

"Thousands of regulations were generated specifying what was to be achieved, and setting fiscal sanctions if they were not," he says of action by Congress.

States, "in complete agreements with the concepts," simply lacked the resources, particularly dollars, to meet the federal mandates.

About the same time, the courts were upholding the national scope of welfare in decisions placing federal law over state law, often with the intent of protecting individual rights, White said.

He cited a 1974 decision requiring Ohio to provide early, periodic screening, diagnosis and treatment of health conditions of 85,000 youngsters from Aid to Dependent Children families.

"Think of savings in administrative funds alone if there were one single organization, with only one criteria of economic need, which would issue benefits," White argued. He cited federal budget estimates for the fiscal year beginning last October as placing the total, annual welfare cost nationwide at $160 billion.

White would consolidate ADC, General Relief, food stamps, unemployment insurance, social security disability and other benefits into one basic program, available to all in legitimate need, through a single cash payment from the federal government.

He also wants supplemental programs, financed at the local level and "tailored to individual community requirements."

Ohio River Freeze Reported Possible

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It took one towboat captain an hour to move his vessel a mile on the Ohio River Wednesday, but that may be faster than his ship will move today. It may not move at all.

There's a good chance the Ohio River, one of the top five navigable waterways in the world, will freeze over for the first time in 30 years, according to the National Weather Service and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"It's going to hinge on how long this arctic weather hangs in here," Corps spokesman Chuck Schumann said Wednesday. "If the barge traffic stops and if the weather stays like it is, the river probably will freeze..."

The Ohio Valley is experiencing its worst winter in years, with heavy snowfalls and sub-freezing temperatures causing ice to jam the Ohio, which links up with such major rivers as the Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland.

The National Weather Service has predicted that temperatures will remain below freezing for the next two days. And that, said Schumann, may mean the river will freeze over.

Schumann said ice has formed "from bank to bank" over many areas of the Ohio.

"The ice is about three inches thick in most places," he said. "Right now, barges are able to get through, and as

UMW Race Now 3-Way

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The United Mine Workers presidential race was likely to become a heated three-way contest today, as union Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick planned a news conference.

He would not detail the purpose of the 1 p.m. conference at a Charleston hotel, but said he has been urged to run by many people.

"I was forced into this. Patterson and Miller made me into a candidate before I was a candidate. And they'll be sorry they made me a candidate," he said Wednesday from the UMW office in Washington.

UMW President Arnold Miller and Lee Roy Patterson, the Executive Board member from District 23 in Kentucky, have announced as candidates for the June election.

Patrick said miners have told him, "If that's the only two running, I'm not going to vote."

Patrick, 45, a Monongah native, was elected secretary-treasurer in 1972 as part of Miller's insurgent ticket. Before that, he was a mechanic at Bethlehem Steel's No. 41 mine at Barrackville. He was Joseph A. Yablonski's District 31 campaign manager in the 1969 union campaign and was national chairman of Miners for Democracy.

Patrick said he feels Miller is scared of his entry in the race.

"I am the strongest possible candidate," he said. "Events will prove that . . . I'm not running against anybody. I'm trying to offer a choice."

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — It took one towboat captain an hour to move his vessel a mile on the Ohio River Wednesday, but that may be faster than his ship will move today. It may not move at all.

There's a good chance the Ohio River, one of the top five navigable waterways in the world, will freeze over for the first time in 30 years, according to the National Weather Service and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

"It's going to hinge on how long this arctic weather hangs in here," Corps spokesman Chuck Schumann said Wednesday. "If the barge traffic stops and if the weather stays like it is, the river probably will freeze..."

The Ohio Valley is experiencing its worst winter in years, with heavy snowfalls and sub-freezing temperatures causing ice to jam the Ohio, which links up with such major rivers as the Mississippi, Tennessee and Cumberland.

The National Weather Service has predicted that temperatures will remain below freezing for the next two days. And that, said Schumann, may mean the river will freeze over.

Schumann said ice has formed "from bank to bank" over many areas of the Ohio.

"The ice is about three inches thick in most places," he said. "Right now, barges are able to get through, and as long as they are able to move, the river probably won't freeze."

But when the barges pushed by towboats break through ice, "iceflows" are formed that hinder river traffic behind them. And if that traffic comes to a dead stop, the river probably will freeze, Schumann said.

"If the ice flows or gorges of ice build up to the point they stop traffic, it will be the first time since 1948," said Schumann. "It could happen at almost any time. As the barges break through, the ice forms together and gets thicker and thicker, and then you will see an increase in the freezing rate."

He said the ice gorges join one another to form "structures similar to icebergs."

"Traffic is being delayed significantly," Schumann said.

Coast Guard Cmdr. John Bailey in Paducah said several major locks which barges pass through "are experiencing difficulty with ice gorging up against the locks."

Normally, 20 to 30 towboats, each with an average of 10 barges, pass through each lock daily. That flow has been slowed to about four at the dams and all traffic has been asked not to proceed past Paducah if the are up-bound on the Ohio, Bailey said.

"We're having difficulties on the Mississippi too," he said. "Between Cairo, Ill., and Cape Girardeau, Mo., we have eight tows either ice bound or aground that we know of."

About 80 per cent of the river is blanketed with ice at Cape Girardeau, said Nel Doernhoefer, another Corps spokesman. At St. Louis, the river is about 60 per cent covered.

UMW Race Now 3-Way

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (AP) — The United Mine Workers presidential race was likely to become a heated three-way contest today, as union Secretary-Treasurer Harry Patrick planned a news conference.

He would not detail the purpose of the 1 p.m. conference at a Charleston hotel, but said he has been urged to run by many people.

"I was forced into this. Patterson and Miller made me into a candidate before I was a candidate. And they'll be sorry they made me a candidate," he said Wednesday from the UMW office in Washington.

UMW President Arnold Miller and Lee Roy Patterson, the Executive Board member from District 23 in Kentucky, have announced as candidates for the June election.

Patrick said miners have told him, "If that's the only two running, I'm not going to vote."

Patrick, 45, a Monongah native, was elected secretary-treasurer in 1972 as part of Miller's insurgent ticket. Before that, he was a mechanic at Bethlehem Steel's No. 41 mine at Barrackville. He was Joseph A. Yablonski's District 31 campaign manager in the 1969 union campaign and was national chairman of Miners for Democracy.

Patrick said he feels Miller is scared of his entry in the race.

"I am the strongest possible candidate," he said. "Events will prove that... I'm not running against anybody. I'm trying to offer a choice."

Area GTE Employees Take Courses At Marion School

Several area employees of General Telephone Co. of Ohio have completed training at the company's technical training school at Marion.

Judy N. Little of 2580 Kingston Park, has completed a course that covers all phases of billing procedures, including customer bill inquiries.

A service representative in the company's Circleville district, Little has been with General for four months.

Robert J. Stahlman of R. R. 1, Millersport has completed a course that includes procedures for installing and repairing electronic multi-line pushbutton telephones used by business customers.

Stahlman works as an installer-repairer in General's Circleville district. He has been with the company for five and one-half years.

Wertie E. Teets of 527 Gumm Place, has completed a course that covers paystation installation and maintenance. Mechanics of the single-slot are included in the course.

All coins are deposited in the single slot on these paystations. Coin denomination is determined by the tone each coin makes as heard by the operator.

Teets has been with General for 10 months and works in the company's Circleville district.

David Baker of 555 Maize Court, has completed a course in advanced key telephone installation and maintenance.

This course includes procedures for installing and repairing electronic multi-line pushbutton telephones used by business customers.

An installer-repairer in the company's Circleville district, he has been with General for seven months.

Dennis E. Warner of Route 1, Ash-ville, a General Telephone Co. of Ohio employee, has completed a course that covers the operation of a new high-speed printer used for sending typed messages.

An installer-repairer in the company's Circleville district, Warner has been with General for six years.

There are more than 90 courses and seminars at the technical training school. Classroom training helps employees develop job skills and keep pace with advances in telephone technology.

Savings Jump 14 Per Cent

Ohio's savings and loan associations have paid over $1 billion in interest and dividends in 1976 to over 4.5 million Ohioans, according to Philip Wayne Cramer, Executive Vice President of the Columbus-based Ohio League of Savings Associations.

The statewide trade association represents 413 state and federally-chartered savings and loan associations throughout the state.

A 14 per cent increase in savings accounts pushed the total savings of the Ohio depositors to $22.6 billion. This is an increase of $2.8 billion, including interest credited over 1975.

Aggregate assets in the state's savings associations reflected similar growth showing an overall gain of $2.8 billion. Total assets for 1976 reached $25.9 billion, a sharp 12 per cent increase over 1975.

Mortgage loans for the year also increased sharply. Mortgage loans held by Ohio savings and loans increased to $21.5 billion, a 14.6 per cent increase over the same figure held in 1975.

Overall savings inflow growth of 1976 surpassed the record year of 1975. The uncertainty of the stock market and the continued low interest yield provided by other money market instruments such as Treasury Bills and other government securities, prompted many Ohioans to seek the less volatile investments offered by savings and loans in the form of passbooks, savings accounts and certificates of deposit.

Mortgage loan activity, despite the effects of increased cost in new and existing homes, continued strong throughout the entire year. Many prospective home buyers who delayed or deferred their housing needs during the recent recession, have realized that home prices will continue to rise and that the only way to save is to purchase now at current levels. Good savings inflows have kept mortgage interest rates at reasonably stable levels with even a slight decrease in some areas of the state during the fourth quarter.

It is expected that the housing demand will remain at a level similar to that of 1976. Housing starts continue to improve, but are not expected to reach the record highs of the early 1970s. A number of factors could be responsible for this, including uncertainty with the new Carter Administration, unemployment levels that are again creeping upward, and the residual effects of inflation. The likelihood of a Carter tax cut and new federal housing programs could provide some incentive for increasing housing demands.

Mortgage demand for 1977 will continue at the intensified levels of 1976. Ohio's savings and loans continue to provide more money for housing than all other financial institutions.

From the supply side Ohio savings and loans will continue to have mortgage money available at stable interest rates. However, varying market conditions make it impossible to predict precisely what the rates in the state will be. Continued strong savings deposits are expected to continue well into 1977 as alternative short-term investment vehicles offer yields that are expected to continue at the present depressed levels.

Small Business Administration Sets Workshop At PRJVS

Prospective small business owners will have an opportunity to learn what it takes to start and operate a successful business through a workshop announced today by Frank D. Ray, Director of the Columbus District Office of the U.S. Small Business Administration.

The workshop program, "Keys to Business Success," calls for a two evening workshop for men and women who are considering starting businesses of their own or buying a new one.

The workshop is sponsored by the Small Business Administration, Chillicothe-Ross Chamber of Commerce, Circleville Area Chamber of Commerce, and Pickaway-Ross Joint Vocational School.

The program is scheduled to be held from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m., Monday and Tuesday February 1 and 2, at the Pickaway-Ross JVS, Crouse Chapel Road, Chillicothe. There is a $3 registration fee.

Attendance is open to all individuals considering starting a new business or who have been in business less than one year.

Subjects covered are: personal factors for business success, business financing, taxes and insurance, organization and planning, management techniques, choosing a location and sources of assistance and information. Local speakers in these professional fields will conduct the workshop.

The reason behind the workshop is to help small business owners avoid the problems that lead to business failure. Ray points out that most failures can be prevented because they are due to lack of management experience and know-how.

The need for management knowledge is essential for business success and it is SBA's aim to inform potential owners of the dangers involved and some things they can do to help achieve success.

Requests for workshop registration, along with the registration fee, should be mailed to Tom Harp, Pickaway Ross County JVS, Route 1, Box 294-A, Crouse Chapel Road, Chillicothe, Ohio 45601.

Enrollment is limited to 35 and registrations will be accepted on a first come, first served basis.

Rescue Workers Called To Free, Treat Victims

Rescue workers in Pickaway County teamed with Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies to free an Ashville man from a silage auger and to treat a Stoutsville youth for an electrical shock in separate Wednesday night incidents.

Robert L. Johnson, 21, is being treated in Mercy Hospital, Columbus, for compound fractures of both legs he suffered when he became entangled with an auger on the 6915 Perrill Road, Ashville, farm of Walter Kuhlwein.

Harrison Twp. Rescue personnel worked nearly an hour to free Johnson from the auger. He was trapped 60 feet from the ground in a silo.

The rescue workers had to climb the silo with their equipment, and use an acetylene torch to free the auger and lift it from Johnson's legs.

He was placed on a back board and lowered to the ground by way of ropes.

The Circleville Emergency Medical Team was summoned to the 8265 Winchester Southern Road home of Donald H. Vine to treat 15-year-old Donald Vine for an electrical shock he suffered while unplugging a power drill.

Deputy Sheriff Jim Bingman was called to the home in the Department's four-wheel drive jeep to assist with the rescue as the driveway to the home was closed by drifting snow.

According to deputy J. Phillip Brown, three of the squadmen walked the half-mile lane to the house to treat Vine for minor injuries.

Deputies Bingman and Brown used the jeep to transport the squadmen back to their vehicle.

Food Stamps Aid 718 Households

Pickaway County residents purchased $1,147,082 in food stamps during the 1976 fiscal year for which they paid $406,502.25 and received bonus amounts of $740,579.75.

This participation represents an average caseload of 718 households per month, according to Pauline E. Roese, director of the Pickaway County Welfare Department.

The food stamp unit of the local welfare department is currently processing 50 to 60 actions each day, an increase which is attributed primarily to high unemployment in the area at this time.

The food stamp program enables low-income households to buy more food of a greater variety to improve their diets.

Participants pay a small sum of money (the amount based on family size and net monthly income) and receive a large value of food stamps, which can be spent like money in the participating food stores.

This program is designed to provide food assistance to low-income households either on a continuing or as-needed basis.

Food stamp benefits are available to victims of disasters ranging from individual misfortune such as fire and flood.
